Saturday vote on 8.5 mills

Voters to decide on millage fate

Romulus voters go to the polls this Saturday to decide the fate of an 8.5 mill increase for school operating expenses for a five-year period. School Supt. James Garfield is "cautiously optimistic" that it will pass. One mill is equal to $1 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation on property.

"Assistant Supt. Marvin Fischer and I have spoken to 43 groups and more than 1,000 people and the reaction is very positive," Garfield said. "We feel pretty good about the election and are hopeful of a large turnout of voters Saturday."

Based on an estimated state equalized value of $200 million in property in Romulus, Garfield said 8.5 mills would bring in $1.7 million. A favorable vote will accomplish three things, according to Garfield. It will raise the estimated $17 million, with $640,000 allocated to meet current needs, $26,000 to restore all programs that were cut this school year, and money to negotiate 2-year salary settlements with school teachers and other employees.

Last year, voters rejected a 5-year five mill increase by a 3-1 margin in June. But in September, the proposal was edged by a 3-2 vote and now Garfield believes the millage has a good chance to pass.

"Everywhere we've gone to present the facts to the people, there has been a real responsive attitude on their part," Garfield said. "It has been much more responsive than last fall and they are listening to what we have to say."

Garfield said he was happy the millage vote was being held on Saturday because it would give more people an opportunity to go to the polls. "I expect at least 3,000 people to vote Saturday and we hope it is even a lot higher. There were 326 absentee ballots taken out by last Saturday's deadline and that is an unusually large number," he said.

The superintendent listed four things that the first 3.20 mills, or 640,000 would pay for. Beginning July 1, the school district has to start paying full retirement benefits for all employees. Retirement costs to the school district is five percent of the employee's wage or salary, an annual cost of $388,000.

Utilities have practically doubled over a two-year period and are still going up, according to Garfield. Another costly item is materials and supplies, which will cost an additional $72,000 next school year.

Really putting a financial crunch on the school system, Garfield points out, is that the district now has to pay workmen's compensation and unemployment benefits — a cost that has risen from $42,000 in 1974 to a projected $160,000 this year, an increase of almost 400 percent.

"There are many intangibles," Garfield points out. "Salary negotiations have to be carried out and we don't know how much that will cost. The teachers and others went without a pay raise this year, but I don't think we can expect them to do it again this year."

The polls open at 7 a.m. and will close at 8 p.m.

At D.C. meeting

Congress hears city message on needs, concerns

Mayor James C. Stewart and several key members of his administration personally carried the needs and concerns of the City of Romulus to members of Congress and President Carter's Administration last week.

The Romulus delegation was among 2,400 mayors, council members and city officials who attended the National League of Cities (NLC) held at the Washington, D.C. Hilton Hotel. Romulus belongs to the NLC, the nation's largest organization of municipal governments, representing some 15,000 cities across the country.

The annual conference is designed to bring municipal officials together with representatives of the federal government during the policy-making process.

Highest on the League's legislative priority list this year is reenactment of the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) Program, with increased spending to $4 billion.

In 1974, the CDBG program replaced several categorical grant programs with a single fund, which is scheduled to expire on September 30, 1977. President Carter's budget proposes an extension of the program for three years and increased funding of $500 million over President Ford's budget proposal, to a level of $4 billion.

Romulus Community Development Director, Stephen Bonczek and his assistant, Eugene Yagley, who accompanied the mayor to the conference, have been closely involved with the block grant program, having obtained $314,000 over the past two years in aid to Romulus.

Among the projects funded through block grant funds in Romulus are the Meadows Neighborhood Center, the Loan and Grants Rehabilitation program, the Neighborhood Conservation and Restoration program, the Wayne-Beverly Neighborhood Center, funding for the Romulus Eager Beaver's, family neighborhood services, mental health counseling for the elderly, and planning activities.

Bonczek and Yagley heard such Carter administration representatives as: Juanita Kreps, secretary of commerce, Ray Marshall, Secretary of Labor, Patricia Harris, secretary of HUD) and Bert Lance, director of the Office of Management and Budget. When not attending formal sessions, Bonczek and Yagley met with HUD, Dept. of Labor and Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) officials in order to obtain up-to-date guidelines and current information for the maintenance of federal programs administered by their department.

Bonczek felt the trip was very valuable.

"I was appraised of new developments in various federal programs, especially the local public works program and its effect on the City."

Covering the other side of the legislative process, Mayor Stewart and other members of the Michigan delegation, met with Michigan Senators, Donald Riegler (D) and Robert Griffin (R), to advise the lawmakers about their concerns as city officials.

The mayor also talked with several key Congressmen from Michigan, who are actively involved in writing urban legislation through their various committee assignments.

Among the top NLC concerns mentioned by the mayors at these meetings, was a call for increased spending for public works, reenactment of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA), housing, mass transit, energy and crime control.

Elected city officials generally agreed that, on balance, President Carter's revisions to President Ford's national budget, rate high marks for effort on urban affairs.

Bert Lance, Carter's budget expert, told the assembled city officials that changes to the 1978 budget have been few, because there has been too little time since the inauguration — about one month — to shift priorities dramatically. He promised future budgets will reflect more closely the new administration's outlook.

The following is a brief comparison of some of the priorities on NLC's urban action agenda and Carter's budget revisions:

THE NATIONAL ECONOMY — NLC called for an additional $3.5 billion in public works grants under Title I of the Public Works Employment Act of 1976 within a $10 billion economic stimulus and jobs program. President Carter's economic stimulus package contains $4 billion in public works spending this year within a two-year $31.2 billion program.

URBAN INCOME — According to the NLC, full employment and equal opportunities for jobs should be given first priority through the reenactment of CETA. In contrast to the Ford budget, which called for a two-year phase-out of CETA's public service jobs program, Carter seeks funding increases to raise significantly the level of jobs under Titles II and VI.

PHYSICAL DEVELOPMENT — Reenactment of the CDBG program with increased funds was proposed by NLC. Carter's budget boosted HUD spending by $640 million to a total of $10.4 billion in 1978.

ENERGY — NLC has called for a national energy policy that will reduce U.S. vulnerability to foreign price manipulations and balanced domestic energy supply and demand. Carter's budget includes an increase of $244 million over Ford's budget for energy conservation programs. Carter's total energy budget is $8.7 billion, up $3 billion over Ford's request.

CRIME — A fresh assessment of the nature and causes of crime as well as its prevention and punishment was proposed by NLC. Carter's budget calls for an spending $3.76 billion for federal criminal justice efforts, an increase of $83 million over Ford's budget proposal.

Mayor Stewart commented that the large attendance this year and NLC's "show of strength on the Hill," should have a positive effect for cities on lawmakers and administration officials.

"Often our national representatives overlook the practical problems of administering federal laws at the local level and need to be informed by personal meetings of this nature, in order to draft better laws or revise existing legislation," Stewart said.

City boat still afloat

Water rate increase passed, temporary

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

Many times it's hard to get Romulus City Council to agree, but members voted last week to declare that a state of emergency exists in the water and sewer department.

But it took two votes and some earnest pleading to pass that notion.

Then the Council passed a resolution raising the water rates to $.50 per 1,000 cubic feet.

The productive night began when Councilwoman Beverly McAnally moved to authorize Mayor James Stewart and City Clerk Leonard Folmar to enter into a contract with Jones and Henry Engineers Ltd. of Toledo, O. for a rate analysis and study of the Water and Sewer Department not to exceed $12,000, unless authorized by Council. The motion was supported by William Oakley and received affirmation from Jimmie Raspberry, Joan Lee and Gerry Canejo. Robert Martin and Fred Block dissented.

After that motion passed, McAnally, supported by Lee, moved to declare a state of emergency in the Water and Sewer Dept. The motion read:

"Whereas the water and sewer department has allegedly experienced gross inadequacies in its funding levels and these inadequacies have prevented the water department from meeting its obligations, and the failure to meet its ongoing obligations to the various vendors doing business with said department has caused said vendors to withdraw services and/or institute legal action against the city as a whole.

"Therefore, be it resolved by the City Council of the City of Romulus that in order to protect the public peace, health, safety and welfare of the citizens of the city, and by virtue of and pursuant to the foregoing a State of Emergency exist in the Water and Sewer Department."

Needing five votes to pass, the motion barely failed when Oakley, McAnally, Lee and Canejo voted yes, but nays by Raspberry, Block and Martin killed the motion.

Then a recess period followed during which time some earnest discussions were carried on between council members and others.

Upon the Council's return, it moved to reconsider the state of emergency motion and this time it carried on a 6-1 vote, with Raspberry voting against it. McAnally, supported by Lee, moved then to adopt the new water rate of $.50 and it also carried by the same 6-1 vote, with Raspberry again dissenting.

McAnally's motion, supported by Lee, to set aside $12,000 of the loan to the water and sewer fund to pay for the rate study passed 5-2 with Block and Martin voting no.

The rate increase to $.50 is for a period of four months or until a new rate is set by the council. The study is expected to take three months and Council is expected to know exactly what the rate should be at that time.

One of the prime movers in getting different factions on the council together is believed to be City Clerk Leonard Folmar. He made an urgent plea two weeks ago to the council that something had to be done in a hurry or else the City of Romulus would lose its credibility and be on the verge of disaster.

Although his message did not result that night in the five votes needed to raise the water rates and declare a state of emergency in the water and sewer department, he just missed by one vote.

Since then, he has discussed earnestly with council members the need for declaring a "state of emergency" and raising the rates to $.50. Since everyone on the council and administration is in favor of a rate study, it was just a matter of getting a rate increase passed until the study results are in.

In other Council action, it voted unanimously that it favors the concept of the development of a sports arena in Romulus if it is economically feasible and beneficial to the community.

A public hearing on the feasibility of setting up an Economic Development Corporation will be held March 29.

New precinct locations set

The City of Romulus will have one new precinct and several changed locations for others when local voters go to the polls to vote in the special millage election Saturday.

Precinct 1 has been divided in two to create Precinct 18. Precinct 18 will vote at City Hall. In other moves approved by City Council, Precincts 1 and 14 will now be located at Wick Elementary School, 36900 Wick Rd., while Precincts 10 and 17 will remain at Cory Elementary School, 35200 Smith Rd. Newly-created Precinct 1 is bounded, roughly, by C & O Railroad on the east, between Ecorse and Chase, with Hannan Rd. the far west boundary.

Precinct 18 — located in the old downtown area of Romulus — is bounded on the north by McBride St., on the west by Ozga, on the south by Bibbins and on the east by a line that runs north along Wayne Rd. to Goddard Rd., west to the C & O

Railroad and north to McBride St. "We urge every resident to get out and vote," said City Clerk Leonard Folmar. "Every citizen should exercise his right to cast his ballot on Saturday."

Although this is the first Saturday election in the city's history, Folmar said he wasn't sure how big the vote would be. Anyone having questions about where to vote may call Folmar at 941-0666.

'Roots' author Haley speaks at Eastern Michigan Sunday

The internationally known author of "Roots", Alex Haley, will visit Eastern Michigan University (EMU) Sunday to speak at 8 p.m. in Bowen Field House.

Haley's phenomenal success story came on the heels of ABC television's unprecedented serialized version of "Roots," which drew some 135 million viewers and was the biggest TV event in history.

The 55-year-old author's search for his roots took him across three continents as he pursued a few slender clues of oral family history which he was told repeatedly throughout his boyhood in Tennessee by his maternal grandmother. Finally, Haley actually tracked his maternal family back to a Mandingo youth named Kunta Kinte, who was kidnapped into slavery from the small village of Juffure in The Gambia, West Africa.

This enslaved youth — Haley's 7th-generation forefather, was transported to Colonial America in the American slave ship "Lord Ligonier," which arrived in Annapolis, Md., on Sept. 29, 1767. The sage of the Haley family, which took 12 years of research by the author, was published in "Roots" last August. The book's skyrocketing success vaulted it atop the bestseller list shortly thereafter.

Haley was born in Ithaca, N.Y., and was raised in Henning, Tenn. The son of a college professor father and a grammar school teacher mother, he finished high school at the age of 15. He attended college for two years before enlisting as a U.S. Coast Guard messboy in 1939.

During his maritime years on various ships, Haley often worked late into the night trying his hand at writing stories. He always had loved reading books of adventure, but this was his first crack at writing. It took him about eight years with pen-in-hand before small magazines began to accept some of his work.

By 1952, the Coast Guard named Haley chief journalist, a new rating for him. In that capacity, he handled Coast Guard public relations while continuing his efforts to improve his writing.

Haley retired from the Coast Guard in 1959 after 20 years of military service, and began his writing career on a fulltime basis. He was a free lance writer for such magazines as "Harper's," "The Atlantic Monthly" and "The New York Times Magazine". He later became an assignment writer for

"Reader's Digest" and wrote for "Playboy" where he initiated the enduring "Playboy Interviews" feature.

Among the many headline personalities Haley interviewed was the controversial Malcolm X. Haley elected to elaborate on his work with Malcolm X, and spent the next two years interviewing him and writing "The Autobiography of Malcolm X", which was published in 1965. The book came out in eight languages, sold more than 5 1/2 million copies and was selected among "The 10 Best American Books of the 1960 Decade".

Haley's long list of awards includes five academic honorary degrees. The author now travels extensively on the international lecture circuit. He maintains homes in California and Jamaica.

Sponsored by the Office of Campus Life, Haley's talk is being held in conjunction with EMU's celebration of Black Solidarity Days. General admission to the lecture is $1; reserved seats are $2. Tickets are available at the McKenny Union Ticket Booth on the EMU campus.

Blues change requisite for mental health care

Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan as of May 1 will require all participating outpatient mental health care providers to have community-oriented boards and to adopt utilization programs to assure quality care.

Affected are 269 mental health providers throughout Michigan. In 1975, they received more than $9 million in payments for care under the Blues' outpatient psychiatric care program. The Blues' benefits, for those groups who carry the protection, pay from $400 to $1,000 a year per member of outpatient psychiatric care.

In essence, the new requirements state that each mental health program or clinic must have:

- A governing or advisory board representative of the community served.

- A utilization review committee to assure the effectiveness of the treatment.

The Blues' president, John C. McCabe, said: "This will draw the community leadership of Michigan into another facet of health care and is an extension and continuation of our efforts to involve the public in decision making on important health care issues."

Currently approved-outpatient psychiatric providers are:

- (1.) Thirty six participating hospitals with mental health programs.

- (2.) Eight state mental hospitals.

- (3.) Sixty community mental health clinics in the network of providers established under state law. Some local government units provide the service; others contract it out to private providers.

- (4.) Twenty eight substance abuse clinics established by state law and licensed by the Department of Public Health Office of Substance Abuse Services.

- (5.) One hundred thirty seven private mental health agencies.

All providers in the first four categories and six of the private agencies already have community governing or advisory boards. However, the utilization review requirement will be new to all providers.

The Blues have had for some time qualifications for approval for outpatient psychiatric facilities. Besides licensure, the staff of such a facility must be multi-disciplinary — meaning that it must include a certified consulting psychologist and a certified social worker, both under the direction of a licensed physician who specializes in psychiatry.

The new community board qualification requires that the facility have on its board representatives of, for example, local government, churches, industry, business, civic organizations and labor unions. The board must have regular meetings, and its responsibilities must include appropriate staffing, policies and procedures, scope of services and program evaluation.

The utilization review requirement calls for specific objectives and goals, a system for reviewing patient treatment, proper records, documented medication and treatment and findings in writing.

Huron District officials are kicking off their annual Sustaining Membership Enrollment Drive to help the area's 3,000 youth enjoy the many benefits of scouting. The district includes the cities of Romulus, Belleville, Woodhaven, and Taylor and the townships of Van Buren, Sumpter, Huron and Brownstown. Some 47 percent of the Boy Scout budget is covered by United Fund and the rest is raised by soliciting businesses and individuals. Included in the group of local officials are Sam LaPresto (from left), community chairman for Belleville and Van Buren Township; Belleville Mayor; Justin Emerson, Tom Robinson, executive of Huron District; Leo Kalota, sustaining membership chairman; Patricia Cullin, Van Buren Township supervisor, and Mayor James Stewart (seated) of Romulus. — ANP photo.

Romulus High to host HS Choral Festival

Some 49 singing groups from 24 schools will be featured tomorrow and Friday as Romulus Senior High School plays host the annual District IV Senior High Choral Festival.

Sponsored by the Michigan School Vocal Association, the concert will feature boys' choirs, girls' glee clubs and combined concert choirs, including an A Cappella choir.

In addition to the Romulus Choir, under the direction of Dr. Lois Munkachy, other local high school singers include Belleville's Concert Choir, Wayne Memorial's Varsity Singers and Concert Choir and Westland John Glenn's Concert Choir, directed by Bruce Graden.

A luncheon for music directors and judges will be served both days in the Romulette Room, the in-school restaurant run by Romulus High School students, under the direction of Oscar Butler, teacher of the commercial foods classes.

"We are pleased and delighted to welcome the Michigan School Vocal Association and the participating choirs to Romulus High School," said Principal Joel Carr.

Arrangements at Romulus High School have been made by Dr. Munkachy, director of the Romulus High School Choir, which is entering the festival for the second year.

Dr. Munkachy worked closely with Ruth E. Datz, District IV chairman, to see the 24 competing schools will be well taken care of.

"We're quite excited about hosting the choir festival," said Mrs. Munkachy, "and we hope all the singing groups do their very best."

Each musical group will sing in 15-minute segments, with 22 choirs performing on Thursday from 8:45 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 24 choirs singing Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Charity dance set

The Romulus Jaycees will hold a March of Dimes benefit dance, beginning at 9 p.m. Saturday, at Romulus Progressive Hall, 11580 Ozga Road, Romulus.

Music for the dance will be provided by Wheatstone Bridge. Modern and old-time dancing are scheduled for the event which is scheduled to last until 1 a.m.

Tickets are $8 per couple, and includes set-ups and beer. All proceeds will go the March of Dimes.

Michael is gone But love and concern for family 'lives' on

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

The life of young Michael Wirts has ended, but the love and concern of friends lives on.

More than $1,000 was raised at the latest benefit to help pay large medical expenses incurred during the 10-year-old's long illness.

Young Michael was a happy normal child attending Haggerty Elementary School when cancer of the prostate gland, rarely found in children, was diagnosed.

After surgery was performed, long months of extensive treatment followed, putting the Wirts family under great financial strain. It was about this time that Ruth Hughes, publicity chairman for American Legion Post 111 of Wayne, became involved and organized a drive to help the beleaguered family.

Mrs. Hughes became very close to the situation and has followed it since the first story was published by Associated Newspapers' five weeklies, — The Belleville Enterprise, The Romulus Roman and The Wayne, Westland and Canton Eagles.

The active volunteer worker has been in close touch with Mrs. Wirts and has even marked a map of the United States, detailing where the hundreds of cards and letters came from to cheer Michael before his death.

'...we felt it best to put one thank you in the paper where it all got started..'

Here is her personal account of the story:

"Why and Thank You" — two words that are so common in our everyday life, but two words that mean so much to family and friends of a small boy who passed away recently.

"Michael Wirts was a happy normal child when a rarely heard of illness in children, cancer of the prostate, was diagnosed and surgery performed. Long months of extensive treatment and extremely high medical bills followed.

"Michael's parents, Kathy and Gary Wirts, and little 8-year-old sister Kathy, of 9793 Van Buren St., Belleville, continued to care for him after hospital stays only resulted in doctors giving them the news that there was no hope. Over and over these loved ones asked why, but never complained.

"Even when the first public news was received, it was a request for cards to cheer him during his illness. It was during the time that the American Legion Auxiliary Unit 111 President Betty Chapman was asked by one Auxiliary member to have the post service officer, Roy Williams, and children and youth chairman for Auxiliary, Bernice Clark, visit the family to find out the need and how the organization could help.

"It was after this visit that Kathy and Gary started to feel some of the pressure start to lift. The Legion paid the utilities, and I contacted Jim Bradley of the Associated Newspapers to have the first of several articles printed asking for help. We requested cards of cheer be sent to Michael and financial aid for the family.

"It was through that article that other newspapers, magazines and radio stations started to pass the word that help was needed.

"Sometimes in these times of so much violence we wonder if there is any good left in this world. Well, members of the American Legion Post 111 and Auxiliary Unit 111, Wayne and the Wirts family can answer that question with a big yes.

"Cards, letters and money started to come into the Legion Hall and also to the Wirts home. School children, church groups, organizations, as well as individuals, all joined in together. As shown by the map we made, things came from all over the United States, all parts of Michigan and even as far away as Australia.

Michael was to receive a phone call from the President, but passed away the day before it was to come. President Carter did write a letter which the family will always cherish and remember his thoughtfulness.

"Anyone who called to ask information or anyone talking about Michael had the question in their mind as to why these things need to happen. And most of all, they asked why such a small child of 10 had a disease usually heard of in older people. I'm also sure that Kathy and Gary over and over still must say 'Why?'

"Through the whole ordeal they repeatedly have said they just can't really begin to know how to thank everyone who have cared. Neighbors, family and friends really never knew the extent of the burden they were bearing until it became almost unbearable. The family had done all they could but medical bills and other costs were coming in, causing regular household things to be pushed aside because Michael and daughter Kathy came first.

"No one really knows how far or to what extent the news article would help, but in the days to follow the mailman was quite busy. Mrs. Chapman acted as chairman for the project and a Michael Wirts Fund account was opened to take care of the donations coming in.

"The Wirts family kept saying 'thank you' for getting this all started, but in reply, the Auxiliary members, working with the project, answered: 'We feel we should thank you for the privilege of helping you and meeting such a wonderful family.' We met a marvelous little boy who right to the end knew he was dying and cared and worried about his family and the burdens his illness had caused.

"It would be impossible, even if funds would permit it, to send thank you's to the hundreds of people who have taken part in cheering Michael's last days and in helping the family. Many envelopes have come in with just a plain wrapper around money addressed to the Fund.

"For fear that we would miss someone, we felt it best to put our thank you in the paper where it all got started. We appreciate all the prayers, gifts, cards, letters and funds.

"The project was brought to a successful close with a Coffee Break benefit dance held by the Post Auxiliary, and a concerned group of CBers from Westland. It was attended by about 200 people and music was donated by two bands. Gifts were donated by local merchants and personal donations raised more than $1,000 with everyone working together. It brought in enough to bring medical bills and funeral expenses almost to an end.

"So again, we don't know why, but we do want to say thank you from the Wirts family and from American Legion Post 111 members and Chairman Mrs. Chapman for everything.

"Kathy and Gary, in saying thank you to everyone for your kindness during this hard time, feel that if Michael could not get better to be a flower here in God's garden, they are proud and thankful that God did not let him suffer too long.

"They'll always remember: God's Garden has need of little flowers. It had grown for a time here below, but in tender love he took it above, in more favorable climate to grow."

From far and near

Ruth Hughes, flanked by Kathy and Gary Wirts, helps hold up a U.S. map, showing the many places that letter and cards came from to cheer young Michael Wirts before he died last month. Postmarks were from cities in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Maryland, Washington, Washington, D.C., Texas, Georgia, Arizona, California and even one from Australia. They say it all began with a story that appeared in The Associated Newspapers. — ANP photo.

Parents' homework: Language therapy

Romulus school teachers have found out the truth of the old axiom, "Where there's a will there's a way."

Because of a reduction in the staff of the Special Education Department of speech and language therapy, approximately 150 children with articulation disorders were not receiving speech therapy this year. The staff reductions were a result of millage failures last year.

However speech therapists felt there was much that parents could do at home to help their children improve speaking skills.

And, this winter the department of speech and language has been offering a special home articulation program, which assists parents in working with their children to help improve their speech.

"We are holding meetings with interested parents at each elementary school in the district to familiarize them with the necessary steps take to correct their children's mispronounced sounds," said Rebecca Oz, who works with the program.

"The speech sounds that children tend to have the most trouble saying are 's', 'r' and 'l', but other sounds also are included in the program," Ms. Oz said.

Each parent receives a booklet prepared especially for his child with explanations on how to form each sound correctly. Also included in the booklet are speech activities, suggestions to parents, sound dittos, word lists and a glossary.

"We'd like to get as many parents involved in the program as possible," she said.

Any Romulus parents interested in working with their children at home and wish to receive a booklet can contact the speech therapy department at 941-0272.

County will resume seniors' garden plots

Senior citizens who enjoy sunshine, gardening and saving money are invited to attend the first "Gardens for Seniors" meeting at the Wayne County Senior Day Care Center in Westland on March 31.

Sponsored by the Wayne County Office on Aging, the gardening program, now in its third year, offers free garden plots on county-owned land to seniors who want to stretch their pension dollars by growing their own vegetables.

"This year the county is providing approximately 125 lots that are 50 by 50 feet," said Wayne County Commissioner Royce E. Smith of Belleville. "But the program is so popular with seniors that there are 135 people already on a waiting list."

Smith said he still is encouraging seniors from his county district — the 26 — to come to the meeting since five Madonna College gerontology students will conduct a gardening panel to help seniors who want to start a backyard garden.

The meeting will begin at 1 p.m. in J Building on the grounds of Wayne County General Hospital-Eloise, located on Merriman Road just north of Michigan Avenue.

"Frank's Nursery stores are donating seeds for the spring planting, but only to those who are assigned plots as their name comes up on the list," Smith said. "However, the Office on Aging wants to help all seniors save money, so this panel has been set up to give gardening tips that will help many seniors interested in starting or improving backyard gardens."

For further information on the meeting, contact the Office on Aging at 326-9400.

Legislation would put teeth in handicapped parking law

Legislation designed to put some teeth into the laws regulating handicapped parking is headed for a vote in the Senate after receiving a recommendation for passage in the Senate Committee on Highways and Transportation.

Sen. Joseph Synsre of St. Clair Shores and David A. Plawecki of Dearborn Heights, co-sponsors of the bill, said the legislation should correct some present inequities in the enforcement of handicapped parking.

One provision of the bill would penalize motorists who illegally park in spaces reserved for the handicapped by imposing a minimum fine of $15. Plawecki said.

A second key provision for the legislation is intended to give the handicapped greater flexibility in finding drivers to transport them by creating a transferable handicapped's certificate of identification.

Meeting opened with the pledge of allegiance to the flag at 8 pm. Supervisor Demski presiding.

Roll Call found present: Supervisor Demski, Clerk Reeves, Treasurer Banotai and Trustees: Hall, Folks, Fowler and Williams. Also present were Attorney Hess, Deputy Clerk Sienko and 25 citizens.

Motion by Folks, supported by Hall, to accept agenda with the deletion of Item 6. Motion carried unanimously.

Motion by Folks, supported by Williams to accept the Regular Board Meeting Minutes of February 22, 1977 with correction. Motion should have read to grant temporary license to Araven Cigarette Co. of Michigan to April 1, 1977 pro-rated to one-quarter of yearly fee, $325.00. Motion carried unanimously.

Motion by Hall, supported by Reeves, to accept Police report as read. Motion carried unanimously.

Fire Commissioner Fowler reported the appointment of Stan Liwa, Jr. as temporary Fire-Chief. Larry Hartwick will remain an inactive member due to health reasons, pending medical information.

Motion by Folks, supported by Hall, to accept Fire report. Motion carried unanimously.

Motion by Hall, supported by Williams, to accept Treasurer's report as read. Motion carried unanimously.

Motion by Hall, supported by Reeves, to accept Dog Warden report as read. Motion carried unanimously.

Supervisor's Report : Read letter from Board of Commissioners regarding the adoption of the Uniform Traffic Code. Read letter from Mr. Gerber, of the Garrison Company, regarding the soil borings at the New Township Hall site. Progress is continuing. Sumpter Township has taken title to the property for the new building. Title must be hand delivered to Chicago. Supervisor made recommendation to give Redman necessary funds to deliver title.

Motion by Folks, supported by Williams, to give Redman necessary funds to go to Chicago with the Title for the property. Motion carried unanimously.

Continuing the Supervisor's Report: The Clerk attended the meeting in Romulus on the Super Sewer. The Board of Review is now in session and will be through March 14, 1977. The Dog Warden will be starting the Dog Census and will continue until he has completed the entire township. BHS senior receives EMU '77 President's Scholarship

A Belleville High School senior, Keith Williams, has been awarded a President's Scholarship for 1977 at Eastern Michigan University (EMU). Keith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Williams of 9677 Hamilton, Belleville.

He was one of 50 recipients selected from among 165 candidates for this year's scholarships.

Keith is captain of the varsity cross country team at Belleville High. He plans to study pre-forestry at the Ypsilanti university.

Candidates for the scholarship must have a minimum 3.50 gradepoint average and submit standardized test scores, a recommendation form completed by the high school guidance director or scholarship coordinator and a letter of recommendation from a classroom teacher or the school principal.

Recipients will receive up to $800 per academic year toward those charges billed to a student's account for tuition, registration fee and housing in university residence halls. The scholarship is renewable for an additional three years, provided the student maintains a minimum 3.0 cumulative gradepoint average.

Also in college news:

Cheryl Knight, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Knight of 45 E. Wabash, Belleville, directed a Readers' Theatre production of "The Waiting Room", which won an excellent rating in the Arkansas Speech Communication Festival in Little Rock, Ark. last month.

She is a member of the Harding College Forensics Team which capped top honors in the tournament.

Miss Knight, a junior, is majoring in speech. She attended Michigan Christian College before transferring to Harding College in Sercy, Ark., last fall.

Romulus resident Carla H. May of 14170 Huron River Drive, has received her bachelor of science degree from Western Michigan University, following the college's recent fall semester commencement ceremonies.

Semta's Detroit shoe does not fit Western Wayne foot

For the past several months, the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) has been holding public hearings for the avowed purpose of attempting to determine the most generally acceptable three plans, from their list of thirteen, proposed for solving Metro-Detroit's transportation problems of today and the future.

The thirteen plans, from which the final three for consideration will be selected, cover the entire spectrum of current transportation technology, from subway systems to extended people movers, from heavy commuter rail systems to express bus, and from light rail to a plan for doing nothing.

During the process of holding those public hearings it quickly became apparent that the subway system plan, requiring the largest expenditure of funds with the least flexibility, and opposed by almost everyone except Detroit Mayor Coleman Young and SEMTA, had the inside track for final selection.

Mayor Young, who is seeking an image restoration job for his upcoming re-election bid, is after the subway system because of its inherent labor intensive construction requirements that would go a long way toward the reduction of unemployment within the city.

SEMTA appears to be leaning toward the subway system plan, in order to satisfy the insatiable appetite of the growing bureaucratic monster created by Congress. SEMTA must select the plan that will provide them with the best possible method of perpetuating their existence.

Since it now appears that in spite of the fact that the Tri County area will have to provide 100 percent of the funding for the plan chosen, and will only receive about 10 percent of the service provided by any of the plans, and since it is also apparent that the final plan selected will wear a 'Made in Detroit' label, Western Wayne County will not gain very much through the adoption of any of the plans now under consideration.

Since this appears to be the case, State Representatives

Tom Brown and Robert Law have jointly introduced a Concurrent House Resolution seeking a delay in the selection of the final three plans. The resolution would provide more time for the overlooked western Wayne County communities to formulate additional plans which would service those communities better and at less cost than any of the plans currently under consideration.

We support the efforts of Brown and Law.

While other legislators have maintained a low profile in this issue, both Brown of the 37th district and freshman Bob Law of the 36th district have led the way to a possible rational solution to this problem.

We support their request for additional time to gain more input from the communities that they serve.

We feel it is in the best interest of our community to slow down and take the necessary time now, for the complete evaluation of all the proposed plans in order to make certain that the plan finally selected will serve the best interest of the entire area rather than just the special interest of a select group.

We commend the efforts of Brown and Law in their attempt to accomplish a delay in the selection of the final three plans. We have come to expect leadership from our seven-year veteran of the State House, Tom Brown, but Bob Law's vigor in his first year is a pleasant surprise.

Who is the Preacher's Preacher?

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

Every preacher's life is a great paradox, an enigma that runs the gamut from unexcelled joy to depths of depression and sorrow. For every mountain of blessing there is a vale of tears.

With a multiplicity of decisions comes the inevitable invitation to criticism. No man on the face of this earth, and that includes our nation's president, carries more responsibility upon his shoulders than the dedicated man of God.

Ministers deal with the eternal destinies of immortal souls; others are concerned with problems limited to this life.

Quick criticism reminds me of a saying I read once. "The trouble with some folks isn't so much their ignorance, as knowing so many things that are not true."

Among the papers in my files is a very interesting set of contrasts that faces every minister, entitled "Your Preacher and Mine."

It describes the preachers' perplexing plight as follows: "If he is young, he lacks experience; if his hair is gray, he is too old. If he has five or six children, he has too many; if he has none, he is setting a bad example.

If his wife sings in the choir, she is being forward; if not she is not interested in her husband's work. If he speaks from notes, he has canned sermons and is dry; if he is extemporaneous, he is not deep. If he spends too much time in his study, he neglects his people; if he visits, he is a gadabout.

If he is attentive to the poor, he is playing to the grandstand; if to the wealthy, he is trying to be an aristocrat. If he suggests improvement for the church, he is a dictator; if he makes other suggestions he is a figurehead.

If he uses too many illustrations, he neglects the Bible; if he does not, he is not clear. If he condemns wrong, he is cranky, if not, he is a compromiser. If he preaches an hour, he is windy; if he preaches less, he is lazy. If he fails to please everybody, he is hurting the church; if he does please everybody, he has no convictions.

If he condemns wrong, he is cranky, if not, he is a compromiser. If he preaches an hour, he is windy; if he preaches less, he is lazy. If he fails to please everybody, he is hurting the church; if he does please everybody, he has no convictions.

If he preaches tithing, he is a money-grabber; if he does not, he is failing to develop his people. If he receives a large salary, he is mercenary; if a small salary, it proves he is not worth much.

If he preachers all the time, the people get tired of one man; if he invites guest preachers, he is shirking his responsibility. So what! They say a preacher has an easy time."

The vast majority of church members and non-members do not even begin to realize the emotional and mental drain and fatigue their pastor has to endure. The burdens and care of multiplied families are weighty indeed. The Apostle Paul described this joyful responsibility in 2 Cor. 6:10. "As sorrowful, yet always rejoicing; as poor, yet making many rich; as having nothing, and yet possessing all things."

I do not know whether to describe the duplicity of the ministry as smiling thru the tears or crying between the blessings. The loneliness of being a pastor is well expressed in "Who is My Pastor's Pastor?"

"It dawned on me the other day that my pastor has no pastor, no human under shepherd to whom he can turn when the days are dark. Like most church members, I have called my pastor when there was need, and he has never failed me.

But who is his pastor? Who rushes to his side when the load is heavier than he can bear alone? Is there not something within all of us which cries out for human understanding and sympathy? Is my pastor an exception simply because he is my pastor? I have made a resolution, which by God's help, I will not break.

I am determined that my pastor shall know that I love him, that he shall not lack the sympathetic understanding which I can give. As a member of my church I shall, in some way, be a shepherd's friend. I can but believe that there are many others like me who will, day by day, stand at the side of the man who has no pastor."

My sentiments are summed up in the poem, "Your Failures to Try."

If you honestly tried but you honestly failed in a cause that you knew was worthwhile; If your good faith was questioned, your motives assailed, you can meet these assaults with a smile.

True values of life that lend strength to the soul are not measured by public acclaim; If you played the game square but fell short of the goal, you're a winner tho losing the game.

The failures you make after giving your best, oft are blessings that come in disguise; Your courage to try is the infinite test that your failure to try but denies.

When life's ledger is closed and all failures must bide, to be scanned by the All-Seeing Eye, He'll condemn not the failures you made when you tried, but rather your failures to try.

Listen to the people

JOHN GARDNER

There is a curious notion floating around that our Chief Executive is too busy and too weighed down with the affairs of state to engage in free dialogue with us. And there's the notion that perhaps the dignity of the Presidency doesn't lend itself to a great deal of dialogue. This is dangerous nonsense.

Even the vaunted Presidential press conference is a very limited format and susceptible to manipulation. I suggest that the President call in representative groups of Americans and exchange views with them in the presence of the press. I suggest that he listen, answer, question and listen some more.

We expect something special of those who seek to represent us as elected officials. We expect openness. We expect candor. Our persistent questioning of them is a crucial part of the process by which a free people judge their leaders—judge not only their policies and capacities but their honesty, their character, their integrity.

But the bad news is that where their political and governmental institutions are concerned, a large percentage of the American people feel excluded, out of it, unconnected. And they suffer all the sourness of spirit that goes with those feelings.

The good news for anyone who cares about the future of this land is that a great many of those people are eager to re-establish a connection. They want in. Not just the poor, the black, the young and women. All kinds of Americans.

There's even better news. The society has begun to let them in. And that has released political and social energies that can be profoundly creative—though they are tumultuous and untidy, as creativity so often is.

When this nation began, the settlers in America believed that every kind of tyranny should go. Let each person stand up straight, unsubordinated and free.

What they didn't foresee was that the rather simple idea of getting people off other people's backs would produce one of the most spectacular outpourings of human energy the world has ever seen. The first 150 years of the new nation was the story of that outpouring—not a story of perfect justice, not a tidy story, but a story of human energies released.

So what brought us to our present pass? For one thing, we did not in the beginning liberate all our citizens. Women, blacks and other minorities remained in bondage. For another thing, the increasing complexity of social organization dampened the fires of creativity. Regardless of what the Constitution says, neither the president nor the nightwatchman in a billion dollar conglomerate is as free as was the frontiersman standing in the open patch of ground he cleared in the forest for his home.

So the flame of released energies was all but smothered. And now there are lively signs of its return.

But to insure its return, we have to attend to the prosaic details of opening up our system. Otherwise, our tired political and government institutions might succeed in putting a lid on those newly-released energies.

And that means attention to openness in government, accessibility, accountability, responsiveness. If we strike directly at those issues we will be striking directly at the heart of the problem.

So I would say to the President: there must be communication both ways—and lots of it. Unrehearsed dialogue. Listening. Answering. It may be uncomfortable. It certainly won't be tidy. But that's what democracy is about.

Health Beat

Oncology, technology of tumors

By RUSS TUTTLE
Director, Community Relations
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

Oncology can be described as "the sum of knowledge regarding tumors". At the Annapolis Hospital, the oncology service is located on the 5th floor, and is used exclusively for the treatment of cancer.

"That word — cancer — so often strikes terror into the hearts of people hearing it used to describe their personal condition," said Carol Munsell, RN, a nurse who works in the oncology service.

"Our nursing format is perhaps somewhat different from what one experiences on the floors," she said, "in that we come into much closer contact with our patients and spend a lot more time with them individually.

"We recognize," she continued, "That most laypeople are convinced that all cancers are fatal, and thus on the oncology service we spend as much time teaching as we do administering medications."

She said that one of her prime functions was to help patients adjust to their condition and accept its reality.

"Often a patient just wants a nurse to sit down and talk. We take the time to honor this request, and we sit and mostly listen. We encourage the patient to verbalize, and usually, after a few minutes of small talk, we'll get around to what the patient's real worry is — himself and his condition."

Mrs. Munsell earned her RN from the Deaconess Hospital — in her home town of St. Louis, Missouri — in 1961. She's been employed at Annapolis Hospital since 1975, and she was one of the initial RN's in the new oncology service.

"This may sound odd," she said, "and I hope I'm not misunderstood, but I drive an abundance of personal satisfaction and gratification working in this service.

"I'm in a unique position, in that I'm able to help people in serious distress help themselves. I've seen cancer in my own family," she continued, "and I've also seen patients who have experienced remission following therapy in our service. When the time is right for the particular patient, I use the word cancer, and ultimately get the patient to use the word in his discussions.

"We simply must be honest with our patients. And it's been my experience that patients will at last appreciate this candor and respond positively."

She emphasized, however, that there is certain information which must be given by the physician managing the case. She had reference to diagnosis, prognosis, mode of treatment, and types of chemotherapeutic agents to be used.

"Our MD oncologist is experts in the field, and they are the only people in fact prepared to make those judgments," she said.

She said that she is convinced, based on her present knowledge and level of experience, that some cancers could well be obliterated if people would simply regulate their life styles a little more carefully.

"I could cite the overwhelming statistics which seem to indicate clearly that smoking and lung cancer incidence are related. But, what's the use?"

"The US Surgeon General's reports are open to public scrutiny, and have been published in all of the media. Yet, despite these statistics, there are more cigarettes smoked each year than in the preceding year."

Needless to say, Mrs. Munsell does not smoke.

"I don't preach," she said, "because it's bporish and totally ineffective. Besides, when I see heavy smokers with lung cancer or throat cancer, it would be in incredible bad taste to say anything about their habit at that point in time."

And she responded, as did Mrs. Williams in a previous interview in the affirmative to a question concerning her personal involvement with her patients.

"I chose nursing as a career. Indeed, I've never seriously thought about doing anything else. Perhaps it's because I've always had a great appreciation for life, and as a nurse I'm able to translate that appreciation into care for the ill.

"If the situation demands, I'll hold a patient's hand, wipe his brow, and yes, I've also shed a tear.

"But in shedding that tear, I've never allowed myself to forget my professional obligations which demand specific responses to certain stimuli. The patient must always come first."

I suggested to Mrs. Munsell that perhaps there was a hint of contradiction in what she had just said.

She replied, "True, It's a difficult juggling act to keep purely human reactions separated from clinical obligations. But, somehow we manage," she smiled.

And maybe that's why these people are selected for such sensitive responsibilities.

Dead! That's what the man was

JOHN KEASLER

There are fewer good editors than good writers. One reason may be that dealing with writers tends to kill them off young. Another may be "style."

Any given newspaper has its own "style," which means a certain style of punctuation, capitalization and, forbiddingly, attempts to lay out "writing rules."

Newspapers have "style books" in which these rules are printed over the years, producing a wild paradox hardly anyone outside the newspaper business knows about.

This paradox embraces the necessity of maintaining a reasonable consistency in the writing style of a given newspaper, and the basic impossibility of "rules" for writing.

Even if writing rules never change, times do. The late great O.K. Boyard, editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, a writing purist and a forceful autocrat, disliked slang.

"Avoid slang," his style book said, decades ago. Ironically, as late as 1960, the same examples of slang were still in the bible called the P-D Style Book.

Thusly, the first time I wrote "hitchhiker" in a story as a newcomer on the Post-Dispatch, it was changed on the copy desk to: "roadside pedestrian engaged in soliciting a ride."

In St. Louis old-timers on the copy desk tended to forget that slang existed, so little did they see.

The resultant style, tended to be literary-minded. When a reporter wrote a story about two sons of a socially prominent family, he stated that the boys had disappeared. They had left a note on their pillow, saying they were running away to paddle their own canoe. Nobody had heard from them since.

Quite seriously, the copyreader (an old-timer) wrote the headline: "No Word Yet Heard From Boys In Canoe."

Style can be ponderous, or it can be somewhat more flexible as was the entire stylebook of William Allen White. The Emporia Gazette was a "down style" paper, he said, meaning it tended not to over-capitalize.

To further simplify this down style, he said the two things inflexibly capitalized were the name of the paper and some variations of the Good Lord.

An editor in San Francisco once accused the opposition editor of being so thick he spelled "Jesus" with a little "g."

William Allen White had three other rules, which were:

1. Never call a man Doctor unless he can set a broken leg.
2. Never call a man Professor unless he is selling snake oil off the back of a wagon.
3. Never use the word "very." Instead, substitute the word "damn."

On some papers style includes advisements to writers on how things "must" be written. When I was on The Atlanta Journal, a style rule was issued stating that no feature story should be over one typewritten page in length.

The rule was quietly dropped after a talented feature writer named Tom Hamm wrote stories down to the bottom of his page, then around the edges of the page.

Short sentences were the style commanded on The Columbus (Ohio) Dispatch when James Thurber worked there and was constantly chewed out for not writing a short opening sentence. Finally he did:

"Dead."

"That's what the man was who police found today with his skull bashed in, lying in an alley behind a saloon at 230 Twelfth Avenue."

"Style" is an effort to ensure consistency among writers and, oddly enough, even the most maverick newspapermen respect the institution, or superstition, of style.

It is told of the rewrite man who lost his temper, cursed out his managing editor, upended a full wastebasket over the head of that worthy, stormed back to his desk, rolled a piece of paper into his typewriter, and still cursing, turned to a colleague, and asked: "What's our style on a letter of resignation?"

School figures misleading

To The Editor:

During the past week, you received a newsletter, THE ROMULUS REPORTER, from the Romulus Board of Education stating how much your property taxes will rise if you pass the proposed five year 8½ mill increase to be voted on Saturday, March 19th.

I feel it my duty, as City Tax Assessor, to point out that the chart indicating the amount of extra money citizens will pay is slightly misleading.

If one looks closely, the figures given in the School Board Chart are actually the difference between the extra tax each person will pay and the amount of money you will be refunded by the State of Michigan, if the State does not change its tax credit procedures in the next five years.

The facts are, that the average resident has a State equalized Value of $13,000 on their home and will see a yearly rise of $110.50 on their tax bills. (The State Equalized Value represents half of the current market value of your property.)

I am not attempting to influence your vote one way or another on the millage increase proposed by the Romulus Board of Education. That is your decision. But, as your assessor I feel it is my duty to see that you know the facts.

Council decision applauded

Dear Editor:

I would like to personally express my deepest gratitude to the Romulus City Council for their timely and appropriate decision, taken at last week's Council meeting, to raise the water rate to $5.50 per 1000 cu. ft. of water used.

Although no one likes to advocate an increase in taxes or rates, the situation clearly warranted the action taken by the City Council.

Their decision represents the work of responsible elected officials, and although it may not be welcomed by some, it was the right thing to do.

We anticipate the results of a rate study, to be completed within the next three months, will fully vindicate the Council's vote.

Again, my appreciation to the Council and to the Romulus Roman for its fair and objective coverage of the events.

Leonard J. Folmar, Clerk
City of Romulus

'Sumpter Day' committee

To The Citizens of Sumpter Twp.:

The former "Sumpter Twp. Bicentennial Committee" has disbanded. In order to keep alive our Sumpter Day activities and other community projects, we are now the "Sumpter Day Committee."

If we are to continue with these projects, we are going to need help — both in membership and participation.

Currently we are sponsoring a "Fats Off" program (for info. call 697-7020), and hopefully, an exercise program in the near future.

Our meetings are the 2nd and 4th Thursday of each month at the Community Bldg., Sumpter and Dunn Rds. at 8 p.m.

We must have the help of the citizens of this community if we are to have our parade, "Sumpter Day Queen," and fireworks again this year.

Won't you please come out and join us on March 24th at 8 p.m.

Fire Department thanked

To the Editor:

This is a letter to the Romulus fire department.

We were some of the people who were skeptical about volunteer fire fighters versus a regular paid force.

Last Monday morning we changed our opinion.

Our business caught fire and once contacted it was a matter of minutes that these men were at the scene.

The water damage, which could have been disastrous to our business, was minimal.

They were "super" efficient.

We want to thank each one who was there, and invite them to please stop in for the cup of coffee you earned Monday morning.

Editor's note...

This page in the Associated Newspapers is being made available to the residents of the communities we serve.

Anyone of any age is invited to submit an open letter to their community or to the editor of Associated Newspapers.

We will publish letters on any subject. If you feel you have a plan for solving a city problem, or wish to comment on someone else's plan, this space is being reserved for you.

If you or your group would like to address the community at large, or just an individual, this space is reserved for you.

If you think you can do it better, cheaper, faster, or with more flair, this is the place to tell everyone about it.

You are invited to send your opinions on events, or items of public interest, to the editor of Associated Newspapers, 35540 Michigan Avenue, Wayne, 48184.

Names will be withheld from letters published, only for very good reason. The reason must be included in the letter.

The editor reserves the right to edit and/or condense letters where necessary.

Associated Newspapers has just given you a public voice. If a story is worth telling to your neighbor, why not tell it to your whole community.

McAnally corrected

To the Editor:

As the Community Development Director for the City of Romulus, it was with great interest that I read Councilperson McAnally's letter to the Editor in the March 2, 1977, issue of the Romulus Roman.

Mrs. McAnally's letter apparently was based on misleading and inaccurate information, which unfortunately may result in a disservice to the community and the credibility of all municipal employees and officials.

I would like to respond to the major charges made in Councilperson McAnally's letter.

STATEMENT: The Mayor "needlessly and ruthlessly" laid-off CETA employees.

FACT: The Administration was reacting to a request from City Council to take necessary steps to reduce the expenditures of the water department, which is in a deficit situation. Therefore the administration laid off eight DPW laborers in an effort to meet this request.

According to CETA rules and regulations, in the event of layoff of regular municipal employees, all CETA employees in that classification (in this case DPW laborer) must be laid-off first. Therefore, the City had no alternative, once the decision to lay-off regular employees was made, that to lay off the CETA employees in question.

STATEMENT: "There are nine persons either working or proposed to be working in the Federal Grants Department alone. Under the previous administration, there were three employees handling the same work."

FACT: There are six new additional programs in operation at this time, with more than ten programs in the planning stages. These programs require additional personnel to implement.

In the seven months I have been administering the Community Development Department, the city has received $3,405,000.00 in federal funds. This amount

From the State House

The criminal justice process

As a legislator and a citizen, my thought has to be to provide the best system of justice available.

In Michigan, indeed, throughout this nation, capital punishment — The death penalty — has gained an increase of support as the answer to the growing rate of violent crime. For some, the execution of a person convicted of murder would provide a societal outrage at the act.

Others would view it as a just revenge. Still others see it as a deterrent to future crimes.

When an individual speaks out against the death penalty, some of its supporters would say they are being compassionate for the criminal, the killer, and not for the victim or potential victims.

My personal view, I, too, would prefer to see those convicted to heinous crimes severely punished; perhaps even to the point of being put to death.

The death penalty, in this regard, becomes an impediment to the realistic solutions as executions would then divert attention from the other areas of crime, then deprive the state's needed resources to make punishment for crimes more certain.

Despite Gary Gilmore's repeated demands, the State of Utah had spent huge sums of money to execute one cold-blooded killer. The Utah Attorney General said it cost his office approximately $40,000 to bring about the execution. This figure represents 900 hours of work by eight assistant attorney generals and uncountable hours of legal research by law clerks assigned to the case. The $40,000 represents but a tiny fraction of the total cost to the State of Utah and to the taxpayers to execute one man.

The costs become an important consideration when we think of restoring capital punishment here in Michigan.

If it were to become simply a cost in dollars to execute one cold-blooded murderer, I then believe that the majority of Michigan citizens would be in favor of spending money for the protection of society. However, there is more to it than that.

In 1974, almost 600,000 cases of serious crimes were reported to the police agencies in Michigan, crime victim studies have suggested that there were perhaps one million offenses that were not reported to the police.

In all, more than 1.6 million cases of rape, murder, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, larceny and auto theft deprived people of their lives, or their possessions, or their physical safety. Taken all together, this must surely strike a massive blow to the senses of security people's feelings.

Just as surely, one who commits these crimes must be punished. However, of all the reported cases, only about seven in 1,000 results in a criminal being placed behind bars.

Habitual criminals, who commit two of every three violent crimes in Michigan are released time and again because of plea bargaining, leniency in sentencing and the fact that judges are often influenced by crowded dockets and the lack of prison facilities.

It is my belief that the commitment of Michigan, with its limited financial resources, must be directed to the overwhelming number of habitual criminals whom law enforcement officers must face on a day-to-day basis and who force people to stay indoors at night and sleep with guns under their pillows.

The Michigan Legislature has implemented legislation to limit judicial discretion in granting plea bargaining in establishing mandatory minimum sentencing.

Now that judges are influenced by crowded dockets and the lack of facilities, we then must address ourselves to seek a solution to these conditions.

One sound proposal that surfaces is in establishing new prison facilities to eliminate the reluctance on the part of the judges to sentence, since the facilities now available are overcrowded, this then would eliminate the crowded dockets.

If we are to build prisons, we can get the habitual criminals off the street and have some place to keep them. This would be a more effective deterrent to crime than capital punishment.

It would make punishment more certain, emphasize that society is strong enough to enforce its laws, that crime does not pay, as it seems now to do.

The People of Michigan may have to decide whether we use our resources to put an end to crime by giving the courts, prosecutors, prisons and police agencies the means to fight it.

THE CRIMINAL JUSTICE PROCESS

The primary objective of the criminal justice system is to deter persons from committing crimes.

The mere presence of police, judicial and corrections personnel and the attendant of public institutions may be sufficient to deter criminal activity. It would seem also that the extent to which the Criminal Justice System deters persons from committing crimes depends on the ability to demonstrate that an individual who commits a crime stands a reasonably good chance of being apprehended, convicted and punished appropriately.

According to the deterrence theory, this process should deter convicted offenders from pursuing further illegal acts, as well as any other persons who may in the future be tempted to commit crimes.

In 1974, there were a total of 5,300 persons sentenced to prison for felonies. Of these, 1,021 persons were sentenced to jail and or fined in felony cases. In effect, what has been said, prison and jail sentences are imposed for less than 1.0 percent of the serious crimes reported to the police.

1977 PRISON POPULATION

It is clear that the population will rise more rapidly during 1977 than has been expected.

The actual prison population during February 1977 is 12,668. The projection for January 1978 will rise to a population of 14,210.

For the year 1977, the normal intake is predicted to be 6,800 cases. To this figure, from the backlog existing in arecorder's Court, the States Penal Institution would receive an additional 800 cases.

To these figures, we must add cases which will come to prison as the result of the mandatory prison sentence for felonies in which a firearm is in possession.

Therefore, from the above, it can safely be projected that during the year of 1977, 8,000 persons would be sentenced to serve in prison as the result of criminal corrections. However, if these projections are correct, Michigan will have an absolutely unprecedented prison intake during 1977.

The assumption can be made that persons released from prison will increase by 20 percent. While release rates are not entirely predictable, they are much more stable and reliable than intake since they are based on a known population and release is governed by length of sentence.

The uncertainties do not render the projection of a prison population of 14,000 as questionable. However, by making population estimates conservatively realistic, the recognition that these problems are real and must be dealt with.

In conclusion, the certainty of punishment as a deterrent for committing a criminal act carries a greater impact on the criminal than capital punishment.

The criminal, his freedom denied and placed behind bars rather than probation or reduced sentence is more of a deterrent to crime.

We must provide a good justice system so that people are not afraid and need to sleep with guns near by.

We must make punishment more certain, society is strong enough to enforce its laws and that crime does not pay. Those who believe crime does pay, jail, denial of their freedom is their penalty.

MAYOR JAMES STEWART

From the Mayor

'Progress Report' 1976

The charge has been heard repeatedly at recent City Council meetings that my administration has not encouraged development, that the City's Industrial Coordinator is not available to interested potential investors in the City's future and that Romulus is always "just around the corner" with industrial development and growth.

I would like to take this opportunity to categorically refute these charges with a "progress report" for 1976, using facts and figures verified by the City Tax Assessor.

Total growth during 1976 in True Cash Value (or actual market value) was $32.94 million. This total growth record of construction and businesses more than doubles the previous high of less than $15 million set in 1975.

Broken down into four major categories, our total growth figure reveals a clear picture of progress and advancement for Romulus.

INDUSTRIAL GROWTH — plus $29.3 million (TCV)

Industrial growth in 1976 was the largest since Romulus became a city in 1970. The previous highest growth year was 1975, when industrial development grew by $14 million (TCV).

COMMERCIAL GROWTH — Plus $1.4 million (TCV)

Commercial growth in 1976 was the second highest since 1970. The previous high was $2.2 million (TCV) in 1974. Two very welcome additions to Romulus' commercial establishment was the Big Boy Restaurant on Merriman Road and the McDonalds Restaurant located on Wayne Road.

RESIDENTIAL GROWTH — Plus $2.5 million (TCV) includes funds for a new 34th District Court House and a new Fire Station. The previous administration's grants department generated one third the funds in a two year period.

STATEMENT: "He (Mayor Stewart) has the temerity to tell us that because these highly paid employees are 100 percent federally funded, they are not placing a tax burden on the people. Anyone who has filed a tax return this year knows where the money is coming from."

FACT: These federal funds are designed to serve citizens by providing employment opportunities to the long-term unemployed. Mrs. McAnally apparently believes that Romulus residents do not deserve to be helped by these funds, and that we should relinquish them to the federal government to be allocated to other communities.

The State of Michigan receives back 65 cents for every federal tax dollar paid. It is the policy of this administration to bring as many tax dollars as possible back to Romulus to serve our residents.

As Community Development Director, I have an obligation to unemployed residents of Romulus to utilize these federal funds by creating meaningful employment opportunities and an equitable distribution of tax monies to the Residential growth was the second highest since 1970. The previous high was $5.6 million (TCV) recorded in 1973. However, more importantly, we have succeeded in reversing the trend of the past three years, of having more homes demolished than new ones built.

AGRICULTURAL GROWTH — Minus $0.26 million (TCV) was due to Wayne County's purchase of farm land and industrial and commercial buildings being erected on land previously classed as agricultural.

All of this new growth equals a grand total of $32,000,000 (TCV) in total wealth of all taxable property and businesses in our city.

To counter frequent charges that city officials are not performing their jobs to the fullest possible extent, I cite just one recent example that brought over $2 million (TCV) to the tax rolls.

On New Year's Eve, the official tax day of 1976, the City Tax Assessor was inside the Detroit Metropolitan Airport taking pictures of taxable construction equipment to document taxes later to be assessed to those construction companies.

Many people aren't aware that when a new industrial or commercial building is constructed, the firm not only pays taxes on the land and building, but also on all machinery and equipment necessary to operate that business.

Quite often, the value of this machinery and equipment is greater than that of the land and buildings combined.

What do the preceding facts and figures mean in practical terms to the citizen of Romulus?

They mean that in the future we will not have to raise taxes to combat constantly rising inflation. In fact, based on last year's growth record, this community.

STATEMENT: "Romulus is only entitled to 24 CETA employees and the Mayor, thinking that he found the pot of federal gold, employed 40."

FACT: The City was allocated $161,000.00 to operate the CETA program for the latest grant period. The CETA program expenditures for the period was $144,153.76, which resulted in a surplus of approximately $17,000.00.

The program was, in fact, not over enrolled, but under enrolled by four positions.

These facts can be verified by written documentation that is available in my office for the review of the council members and interested residents.

I would hope the answers provided will clarify the confusion, and I trust that Mrs. McAnally as well as other interested councilpersons and the general public will take the time to contact the Community Development Department for information regarding Federal Programs.

Sincerely,
Stephen Bonczek

NINA TRUMP

State Bar seeks changes in present bail bond system

The president of the State Bar of Michigan has charged that the present bail system discriminates against the poor and places much power in the hands of bail bondsmen.

Grand Rapids attorney William G. Reamon, who heads the 16,000-lawyer association, said pre-trial release decisions should rest with the court, not with the bondsman who are outside the judicial system.

Reamon added that the Bar's Board of Commissioners has adopted a recommendation urging state-wide changes in the current bail bond system. The changes were detailed in a letter to Chief Justice Thomas G. Kavanagh, head of the State Supreme Court.

The most significant change calls for posting a sum of money equal to 10 percent of the bail fixed by the court, rather than a bond. Should the defendant appear in court on schedule and be not found guilty, the entire amount deposited would be returned to him or her. Should the defendant be found guilty, he or she would be returned 90 percent of the amount deposited. The remaining 10 percent, equivalent to 1 percent of the bail, being retained to cover administrative costs.

The change already has been adopted by the judges in Detroit

Recorder's Court as an alternative to the current system. Under it, a defendant who is unable to post his won bond is likely to go to jail, if he cannot get a bondsman to post it for him. For posting the bond, the bondsman usually is paid 10 percent of the amount required as a fee. Moreover, the bondsman often requires collateral or a promissory note as well.

The proposed rule sanctions release on recognizance and on conditions, neither of which discriminates on the basis of a defendant's financial worth, and requires that if money bail is to be fixed, the defendant's ability to pay shall be one of the factors to be considered.

The new rule also would call for consideration of length of residents in the area; employment history and current status; family relationship and ties; accurate and valid information of prior court appearances, including information of prior warrants issued, if any; prior criminal record, if any; existence of members of the community who would vouch for the defendant; reliability; the crime charged; and other factors indicating the defenant's ties to the community or the risk of willful failure to appear.

Romulus High School, she is considering enlisting in the Air Force after graduation and plans on joining the ROTC program.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Trump, Nina has two brothers in the Air Force and a brother and sister at home.

Several other cadets also received promotions.

Suzy Block completed the Doolittle Achievement, received the Doolittle ribbon, and now is cadet master sergeant.

Timothy Kudla received the Lindbergh ribbon on passing that test and was promoted to cadet technical sergeant.

Completing the Arnold Achievement and getting that ribbon was Jackie Bath, promoted to cadet first class.

Kristine Bunyak completed the Curry Achievement and upon taking the Cadet Oath was promoted to cadet airman, receiving the Gen. Curry ribbon.

Civil Air Patrol is a nationwide organization made up of volunteers and is best known for its search and rescue operations. It also conducts a program for teen-age cadets which focuses on aerospace education, leadership, physical fitness and drill formations.

The Wayne-Romulus Squadron meets at 7:30 p.m. Wednesdays at Romulus South Junior High School, 11401 Olive St., Romulus.

It is open to all teen-agers. Further information can be obtained by calling 2nd Lt. Sandra Dubois at 721-2579.

Hibbard handles JA drive

The industrial relations manager of the Ford Motor Co.'s Wayne Assembly Plant will be area chairman for the 1977 Junior Achievement (JA) of Southeastern Michigan Fund Drive.

Ken Hibbard was named to the post by George A. Ferris, vice-president of the automaker's Basic Products Operations and one of five unit chairmen of the drive.

General chairman of the 1977 campaign is Daniel J. Kelly, partner in charge of metropolitan Detroit offices of Touche Ross and Co., Certified Public Accounts. The drive runs through April and has a goal of $620,000.

Funds he raises will be used toward the continued operation of the Wayne JA Center, located at 3139 Wayne Road, Wayne. More than 300 area high school students are involved in the JA program at that center.

Due to winter weather

Tax relief available for property losses

According to U.S. Sen. Don Riegle Jr., tax relief is available for many Michigan taxpayers who suffered property losses in heavy snowstorms which began Jan. 27. Under the Disaster Relief Act of 1974, taxpayers in federally declared disaster areas may deduct their losses on either their 1977 or their 1978 income tax return form. Individuals can file for the 1977 tax return by completing Form 1040X and submitting it to the Internal Revenue Service (IRS). Corporate taxpayers should use Form 1120X. "This relief is crucial to the Michigan taxpayers who incurred losses during the winter," Riegle said. "With the high unemployment rates currently plaguing Michigan, economic recovery has been badly lacking. We must ensure that the recent cold weather and energy crisis does not impede any chance of recovery." Allegan, Barry, Cass, Chippewa, Eaton, Oceana, Ionia, Ottawa, Sanilac, Shiawassee, Hillsdale and Van Buren were declared disaster areas by the President on Feb. 5, 1977.

Losses to business property are generally deductible in full while personal property loss deductions are limited to the amount of loss exceeding $100, Riegle explained. No deduction is allowed, however, for the portion of any loss which is subsequently reimbursed by insurance proceeds.

Michigan taxpayers should understand that the deduction applies only to sudden, unexpected or unusual damage, such as frozen pipes that burst or roofs that collapsed under the weight of the snow, Riegle said. Gradual deterioration does not qualify.

Riegle recommended that taxpayers compile lists of those items damaged or destroyed and determine their value immediately before and after the loss occurred. Before-and-after photos of the damaged property, judgments of appraisers and local newspaper articles describing storm damage are helpful in establishing the amount of loss.

Taxpayers who need help in preparing their returns or claiming refunds should contact their local IRS office, Riegle said. Two helpful IRS booklets, "Tax Information on Disasters, Casualty Losses and also are available free from IRS offices.

"Workbook for Determining Your Disaster Loss" (Publication 584)

Correction

In last week's edition of The Enterprise-Roman, one name on the Romulus North Junior High School honor roll was incorrectly spelled. It should have been Lisa Cadden, a seventh grader at the school.

Students at Cory Elementary School in Romulus found that there is more to a meal than eating it when they prepared, served and cleaned up after a breakfast for staff members. The students served a meal made up of bacon, sausage, pancakes, eggs, cinnamon toast, orange juice, milk and fruit, then headed for the kitchen to "rattle those pots and pans". Manning the washing line were Mark Nowakowski, fifth grader (from left); Debbie Nolan, April Key, Todd Giulian, John McCombs and Ron Mawby, all fourth graders at the school.—ANP photo.

Kelley asks PSC to look into utility's passing on cost

State Attorney General Frank J. Kelley has told the State Public Service Commission (PSC) that it should not permit Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. to continue automatically passing 100 percent of its increased costs of gas through to its customers until the PSC has made an investigation that the increases actually are beyond the utility's control.

Kelley asked the PSC to immediately restrict the automatic recovery of 90 percent of the increased costs and to order an investigation into the prices paid for gas to companies, which also are owned by Consolidated's parent company.

Kelley said he took the position because 88 percent of Michigan Consolidated's cost of gas now is composed of charges from sister companies, which also are owned in whole or in part by its parent company, American Natural Resources Co., formerly American Natural Gas Co.

Michigan Consolidated is a 100-percent-owned subsidiary of American Natural Resources, as is Michigan-Wisconsin Pipeline Co., Consolidated's primary gas supplier. Michigan-Wisconsin's charges are about 81 percent of Michigan Consolidated's total cost of gas, and another 78 percent of the total cost of gas is comprised of charges from Great Lakes Transmission Gas Co., 50 percent of which is owned by American Natural Resources Co.

Kelley said: "Automatic adjustment clauses, which permit rates to be increased by the utilities without hearings, are in my judgment a dubious regulatory practice and can only be tolerated where it is beyond question that the costs involved are beyond the utility's control.

"In this case the increased costs of gas to Michigan Consolidated, which are causing people's bills to rise so dramatically, are being demanded by Michigan Consolidated's own parent company."

Kelley opposed Michigan Consolidated's effort to get an automatic adjustment clause from the Public Service Commission in 1973 for similar reasons, but the PSC approved the clause.

Adult ed classes planned

A 5-session series of "Meetings at Town Hall" highlights the adult education classes available this spring at Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn.

Registration for the spring term of nine enrichment courses, 33 craft classes and 19 workshops, will take place March 26 in Lovett Hall on the grounds of Greenfield Village. Friends of Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum can register from 9 to 11 a.m., with registration for the general public slated from 2 to 3 p.m. Adult education classes will begin April 4.

In the enrichment category, "Meetings at Town Hall" will be offered to acquaint students with selected areas and collections of the Village and museum through slides, discussions and visits to related buildings. Individual classes focus on the Kentucky rifle, the Conestoga wagon, Martha-Mary Chapel and Thomas Alva Edison. At one session, students will even have the chance to see the village from the seats of their bicycles.

Other enrichment classes include "Old Cars for Fun", "Architecture - Once Over Lightly" and "The Care and Firing of Black Powder Firearms." Students may wish to combine the special August enrichment class with their summer vacations. The class, titled "The Upper Peninsula's Ford Trail," will be taught by Ford scholar David L. Lewis and will feature a preliminary lecture and a 3-day visit to Michigan's UP.

Spring craft courses range from glassblowing and chair seat weaving to macrame and metalworking. Soap making, smoking, candlemaking and Indian finger weaving are only a few of the featured subjects offered as 1-and 2-day workshops this term as well.

Additional information and a descriptive course catalog may be obtained by writing Adult Education Division, Greenfield Village, Dearborn, Michigan 48121 or by calling 271-1620, ext. 528.

Adult education classes are offered as an extension of the collections, exhibits and activities of Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum.

Mayor attends cub banquet

The presentation of the flags and the Pledge of Allegiance, led by the Webelos den, helped to open the annual Blue and Gold Banquet of Cub Scout 739 of Merriman Elementary School.

The invocation at the Feb. 22 banquet was given by Paul Sovensky and was followed by a pot luck dinner.

Guests of honor at the banquet included Romulus Mayor and Mrs.

James Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Berlin, PTA president Richard Goode, Merriman School principal Paul Sovensky, Mrs. Alice Helmuth, unit commissioner, and William Pruett.

The Cubs made the table decorations, name tags and corsages for the mothers for the annual banquet. The program booklets matched the banquet theme and were in colors of blue and gold.

As part of the program Mayor Stewart spoke to the audience on how Scouting makes for good solid citizens and leaders and discourages delinquency among youths.

Following the dinner awards were presented by Committee Chairman Jerry Szveda, with assistance from Webelos Den Leader George O'Boyle, and his assistant, Ron Jarvis.

Receiving awards were Ray Langley, forester and geologist badges; Robert Koepfel, Webelos denner; David Kovak, Webelos assistant denner; Chris Solak, Wolf patch, one gold and three arrows, Bear book and 1-year pin; Tim Dunlop, 1-year pin; and Will Ciansarani, recruiter patch, one silver arrow and 2-year pin.

David Pusakiewicz, Bear patch, one gold and one silver arrow and 2-year pin, Robert Stratton, Wolf patch and one gold and one silver arrow; Huey Yates, denner in Den 5; Bobby Cisco, assistant denner in Den 5; Steve Langley, assistant denner in Den 3 and three silver arrows; and Eric Scanlon, denner in Den 3 and one silver arrow.

Dirk Newsome, Bear book; Frank Gondek, Wolf patch, Bear book and one gold arrow; Joey Mabelitini, Bear patch, one gold and one silver arrow; James DeBaeke, two silver arrows; Mike Pogots, assist denner in Den 2; Doug Robbins, denner in Den 2; and Bobby O'Bryan, Bear book.

Those Scouts advancing to the Webelos included Jeff Johnson, Joey Mabelitini and David Pusakiewicz.

Leaders recognized at the banquet were Sandy DeBaeke, assistant den leader in Den 2; Barb Schuster, assistant den leader in Den 3; Ron Jarvis, assistant Webelos leader.

Fifth graders study anatomy

Create model human

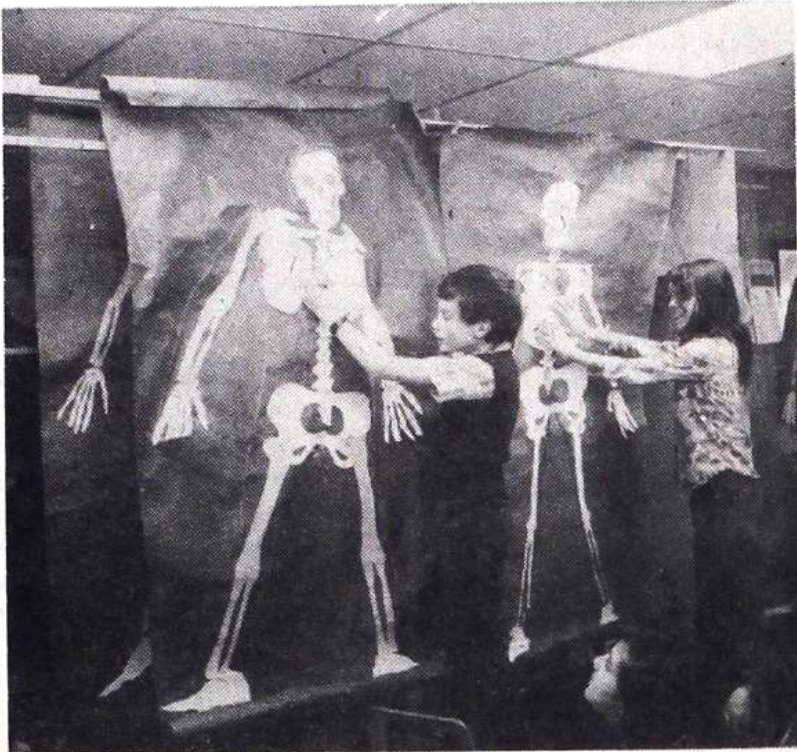

The fifth grade students at Belleville's Edgemont School presently are involved in a study of the human body — and are even constructing the anatomy as they go.

In addition to text book materials, audio-visual material and lectures, each student is making a life-sized paper model of a human being. As each system of the human body is studied, the main parts of that system are cut out of paper and added to the student's outlined body form.

"It's hoped that this activity will help the students remember what they learned," said James Lightfoot, teacher of the class.

In the study, interested students are being challenged to go beyond the traditional expectations of a fifth grade student, with an eye toward future life applications, Lightfoot said.

"We feel the human body is a remarkable machine," he added. "But its functioning is, to a great extent, dependent upon our knowledge and care. This, too, is a subject for our discussions."

Learning about the human body is a fascinating thing, as evidenced by the fifth grade class of James Lightfoot at Edgemont Elementary School in Belleville. Jeffrey Marsh and Yvonne Smith "learn by doing" as they add parts to their life-sized paper model of the human form.

International protests aim at seal slaughter

An international outcry and a giant petition-gathering campaign have been aimed at the Canadian and Norwegian governments who have moved to up the quotas on the fatal clubbing of baby seals to 170,000 for 1977.

"The only way to save the lives of the harp seal baby," said an Animal Protection Institute spokesman, "is to bring this kind of public opinion to bear. When the Canadian and Norwegian governments faced a real juggernaut once before — in the form of aroused public opinion from many countries — they changed policy to the extent of at least setting quotas.

"Now they believe the world has gone to sleep again. So they had a quiet meeting in the Canary Islands and made a sharp increase in the allowable kill. That increase, officially, will be more than 40,000 seals this year alone. But unofficially, it shows that the governments' real intention is to let the sealers take as many seals as they think they can get away with — irrespective of the fact that the seal population has declined greatly.

"The sealers themselves will go further than the government figures project. They will far outrun the official projection just as they did in 1976 when they clubbed 40,000 beyond the number that the government was 'allowing'."

Belton M. Mouras, president of the Animal Protection Institute, (API), said the seal kills "set temperatures rising like almost no other issue". He expects a minimum of several hundred thousand signatures to be gathered in a period of about two months. The killing is scheduled to begin this month.

"The nations of the world are being put on alert, that there is a great world force of animal protectionists who finally have decided to draw the line on how many species are utterly destroyed for purely commercial reasons," Mouras said.

Mouras added that the issue involving the helpless offspring of the harp seal — furry white babies whose skin is at its most precious during the first three weeks of life — is particularly clear-cut. The usual defense of those who trap or kill animals for the fur is the ease with which those furbearers will populate again by the following season.

"That is rarely the case," Mouras said. "And in the case of the harp seal it is tragically untrue."

Authoritative figures were produced last year indicating that at most, there probably are about 800,000 harp seals remaining. Last year's kill cut sharply into that figure. API spokesmen believe that an updated census-taking — which was previously accomplished with great accuracy by aerial infra-red photography — has been evaded so that new figures won't come in time to reveal the hazard of allowing this year's kill to take place.

The cruelty of the hunt outraged millions when protectionists first began calling attention to the brutal marauding against the 2-week-old seals on the northern ice packs by large commercial operations and parties of landmen.

Thank You

The Frederick W. Hay family of 14170 Huron River Drive, Romulus, would like to express thanks to the people of the Romulus community and all others, for their help during our recent tragic fires. It is unbelievable how generous people have been with gifts of food, clothing, prayers, help in removing furniture and belongings and other work tasks, as well as thoughts of love and concern.

Margie and her sons lost all of their clothing and belongings. What furniture and possessions we saved from the house fire on December 9 and stored in our barn, were destroyed in the barn fire the evening of December 12th.

Carla's Top Ten National Champion Arabian gelding, "Cest La Vie", and a fine purebred Arabian mare both perished in the barn fire. There was not time enough to save them.

We feel very fortunate that all of our family came through these two tragic experiences alive. Carla's little dog, a Finnish Spitz, awakened the six of us at 3:00 A.M. just in time to escape from the house. We never smelled smoke, even though the garage was almost all destroyed when we awoke.

Our sincere thanks is extended to the Romulus Fire Department chief and men who responded so promptly at both fires and who worked so valiantly.

We thank the City of Romulus officials for helping us make the transition to (temporary) trailer living, and for their concern and care.

We are grateful to the Romulus Police Department who directed traffic and for their protection during these times.

We deeply appreciated the collections of clothing taken in the Romulus Community Schools for Margie and her boys. Special thanks to the children and staff of the entire Eriksson School in Canton (Plymouth), Michigan who remembered Carla, who did her student teaching there this past fall.

Thanks to Mike Simons of the local State Farm Insurance Company whose personal concern helped ease our suffering at this time.

Thanks to Mr. & Mrs. Don Ford of Lancer Arabians, Brighton, Michigan; Mr. & Mrs. Frank Flock of Romulus; Mr. & Mrs. Allen Tyler of Belleville; Mr. & Mrs. Clarence Otter of New Boston who helped provide for some of our horses during this emergency when we had no water or necessary facilities for expectant mares, etc.

It has been a very difficult winter in which to make much progress, but we are beginning to put things back together. We have lost much, but we have gained a togetherness few families ever experience.

In behalf of our whole family — all thirteen of us — heartfelt thanks. May God bless you all.

Sincerely,
FRED and HELEN HAY

Dinner party welcomes Betty Savage 'back home'

By Mrs. Joseph Spring
699-4021

Mrs. Lulu Rose of Roulo Street has been a patient at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne this past week.

Jones, of Dayton, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Jahner and family of Tecumseh.

Mrs. Harold Klais of River Rouge was a weekend guest of her friend, Mrs. Clayton Saunders of Liberty Street.

Larry Orr of Paradise and daughter, Laura, were weekend guests of his parents, the Lloyd Orrs of Harmony Lane.

Mr. and Mrs. George Haft of Church Street were among the 18 members of their family who gathered over the weekend of March 5 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hyde at Tecumseh. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jones and family, Mr. and Mrs. Dan

Mrs. Dorothy Kellas of Margery Street attended a dinner meeting of the Strand-Weeks Club on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ludwick of Wayne. Members of the club are Past Matrons and Past Patrons of Wayne County Chapters, O.E.S. of 1972-1973.

Recent weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Smith of Edison Lake Road were their daughter and son-in-law, Luanne and Pete Schonfeld of Evanston, Ill. On Sunday the Smiths and daughter, Carol, and their guests were invited to brunch at the Ann Arbor home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hudge and daughters, Nancy and Nora.

A former Robbe Road resident, Mrs. James (Betty) Savage, now of Stalwert in the Upper Peninsula, has been a guest of relatives and friends during the past week.

On Wednesday, March 2, Mrs. Leeland Vandecar of New Boston entertained at a dinner in her honor. The group of friends attending were Mrs. Verlie Johnson, Mrs. Gerald Miller, Mrs. Henry Herkimer and Mrs. Albert Dolph of Belleville; Mrs. Roland Henderson of Ypsilanti and Mrs. Russell Wilson of New Boston.

The hostess was assisted by her husband and their daughter, Mrs. William Villa.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Miller of Glenside, Pa. were recent weekend guests of the former's parents, the senior Norman Millers of Second Street, and other relatives. On Saturday they enjoyed dinner together at Nickerson's with Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Miller of Garden City and Mrs. Aileen Mengel of Ann Arbor.

Michael and Adam McKelvey, small sons of the Glenn McKelveys of Flushing, returned home last Wednesday after having spent the past five days with their grandparents, the Charles McKelveys of Bemis Road.

Dale Maki of Quirk Road left Saturday, March 5, for Phoenix, Ariz., where he will have a position as a trainer in a Governmental Migrant Opportunity Program in bee keeping.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hatch of Church Street were among the many who attended the Huron Hills Lapidary and Mineral Society banquet held at the West Junior High School in Ypsilanti Saturday evening, March 5.

Callers on Sunday of last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Miller of Second Street were friends from Ypsilanti, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woodside.

Weatherman speaks

At the Van Buren Garden Club's March meeting Lee Vandecar (left) of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration and a weatherman at Detroit Metro Airport was guest speaker. He was welcomed by Mrs. Henry Deering (right) club president. Vandecar showed slides and a movie and told of the necessary precautions to take during the upcoming tornado season.

Garden Club learns tornado rules; says 'bye to twosome

The Van Buren Garden Club met in the lounge of the First United Methodist Church of Belleville

March 8 with Mrs. Mary Graham, Mrs. Helen Wilson and Mrs. Inez Carnahan acting as hostesses.

Two of the club's members, who will be moving to retirement homes within the next few weeks, were honored at the meeting and each presented with a bouquet of daffodils. Miss Ellen Gould will be living at the Gilbert Home in Ypsilanti while Mrs. Audrey McKee will be at the Methodist Home in Chelsea.

Guest speaker for the afternoon was Leland Vandecar of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration who had been a student of Miss Gould while at Belleville Elementary School. She introduced him as "one of my boys."

Vandecar showed slides illustrating the instruments used in measuring and predicting weather. He also showed a movie of a tornado, giving precautions to be taken if a tornado watch is broadcast and, finally, the safest places to seek protection if a tornado warning is given.

Printed information, sized conveniently for wallets, was passed out to members. The "Tips for Tornado Safety" are located elsewhere on the Suburban Living pages. Please look for a boxed-in story which, we hope, will alert readers to the pending tornado season and how to be prepared in case a twister is sighted.

Mrs. Doris Roe reported on an article written by Norman Cousins which showed the possibility of weather manipulation being a potential military weapon. The item pointed out that weather is a moral as well as meteorological issue.

In a lighter vein, Mrs. Winifred Gault announced that she had a Christmas rose blooming in her yard.

They're retiring

The Van Buren Garden Club paid tribute to two of its members, Mrs. Audrey McKee (left) and Miss Ellen Gould, who are to move into retirement homes in the next few weeks. Bouquets of daffodils were presented to each during a special meeting March 8. Held in the lounge of the First United Methodist Church of Belleville, the gathering was hosted by Mrs. Mary Graham, Mrs. Helen Wilson and Mrs. Inez Carnahan.

Atchinson is speaker at ABWA dinner-meet

The Huron Valley Charter Chapter, American Business Women's Association, (ABWA), met at Belleville's Nickerson Farms "Tin Lizzie" Restaurant for its monthly meeting on March 3.

Kurt Atchinson, representing

Belleville's Atchinson Ford dealership, was the guest speaker. The president of Belleville's Chamber of Commerce, he gave an interesting talk explaining the functions of the Chamber and the benefits of belonging to your local Chamber of Commerce.

Dorothy King, the vocational speaker, is a hair stylist at Jerry's Foxy Lady in Belleville.

Five guests attended the meeting, two of them being members from Ann Arbor's Embers Chapter.

On March 30 at 8 p.m., the Romulus Rotary Anns are having a fashion show, with Kureth's Dress Shop and Jerry's Foxy Lady participating.

Wills, trusts featured at Study Club

The March 9 meeting of the Women's Study Club of Belleville featured a Wayne attorney, William J. Szlinis, who spoke on "Wills, Trusts and Probate." He later answered questions from the group.

Lois Hamilton, a member of the Education Department, introduced the speaker and later assisted department chairman, Shirley Books, and other committee members, Emma Stevens, Wilma Petrasky and Sye Chen with refreshments.

Held at the Lemontree Clubhouse, the meeting was conducted by Avis White, president, who is scheduled to attend the spring convention of the State Federation of Women's Clubs slated for April.

CHIROPRACTIC

This is a science that is sound and simple in its basic premise. Chiropractors understand that disease and sickness are caused by interference with normal nerve transmission and expression. Because your brain and nerve system control your entire body, it is vital that the nerve network be free of pressure. The master architect that designed the body, encased the spinal cord in solid bone to protect it. This shaft of bone is divided into twenty-four movable bones called vertebra. When a vertebra moves out of alignment it can put pressure, strain, irritation, or tension upon a nerve causing disease. Think about it — your brain is the master controller of your entire body. As you sit and read this article, your heart is beating, your lungs are taking in oxygen, your stomach is digesting food, your bowels are collecting and eliminating waste, all automatically. Inside your wonderful body, thousands of different jobs are being performed to maintain your health. It's your brain and nervous network that form your Life Line and controls bodily function. Your Doctor of Chiropractic does not prescribe any drugs or perform any surgery. He adds nothing to, nor takes anything away from your body. Chiropractors do not claim to treat or cure all disease. We claim to adjust the spine to release, remove, and relieve nerve interference. We know that the body needs no help to maintain health, just no interference. The truth is, that your body will heal itself from inside out, once the cause has been removed. As a Chiropractor, I believe that before someone would chemically influence his or her blood stream with a drug, or submit to surgery, try a Chiropractor first. I believe the most conservative natural approach to regaining and maintaining your health is Chiropractic.

My concern is to make you aware that millions of Americans are turning to Chiropractic each year, because it works. To find out more about caring for your own health, and Chiropractic, attend a free health lecture on any Wednesday evening. We begin at 7:00 p.m. Lectures are held at the Belleville Chiropractic Life Center, 175 Second St. Belleville. Call 697-6616.

Reflections

Sorry, there's no column this week

By LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

For a whole week now I've been searching for a subject for this column. I came up with a couple and attempted to get a few paragraphs on paper only to find they weren't "grabbing" me.

As I re-read the little I'd penned I decided no one really cared if I'd had an unusually happy day or not. Nor would they care what started my thinking on all the crazy and insignificant thoughts and deeds that MAKE a happy day.

So what if being able to turn right on a red light had made me say, "Hey, this is nice", so what if I felt really fortunate to have brand new I-75 so conveniently at my doorstep, so what if a caring friend had taken time from a busy routine to call and say, "Hey, that was a nice luncheon yesterday."

Who really cares that you're sitting in your favorite room — IN THE SUN (such a vagabond this winter) — and enjoying a cup of homemade spiced tea as you continue your mental journey.

They'll only say — so what? Big deal!

Try as I might I could not continue my "super happy" story because it all sounded too saccharine-coated. And readers would say, "Who's she trying to kid — no one has THAT perfect a day!"

So that whole train of thought got side-tracked and a few hours later I attempted another tack. The inspiration came as I stepped out the door in early evening and felt and "smelled" spring in the air.

Then I sat contemplating an explanation for the "smell" of spring. In March with no blooms as yet emitting a scent, no grass cuttings to sniff and no freshly-plowed soil to breathe in — how was I going to justify my "smell" of spring.

No, there just wasn't enough substance for that route.

As I rattled the cerebral cage in between final scenes of "Rich Man, Poor Man," there just was no reaction. The weekly dilemmas of "Family" failed to provide me with a topic either and Channel 7 news did me in.

The next day I picked up the Enterprise-Roman and after perusing the editorial page found, much to my surprise, that Jim Bradley was suffering from the same neurosis — "hacker's halt." That awful malady when nothing, but nothing, ignites that light bulb dancing somewhere above the brain.

But wasn't he lucky? Not only was he blessed with a letter from Granny Two Shoes but gets rescued a second time when his nephew, Rusty, pays a visit. That at least gave him his little family outings on which to dwell.

Who'd care that we took our last-child-at-home out for a panoramic view of Dearborn, River Rouge and the skyline of Detroit while doing "60 Minutes" in the Hyatt's revolving restaurant?

Now, if a long-lost cousin had popped up at our house, it could have been him/her that we were entertaining and it could have filled a few pages. A cousin — and particularly long lost — now that's a subject readers would buy. Having lunch in mid-week with hubby and daughter? Uh-uh!

(I've got to tell Jim, tho', while I think of it — don't let those crowds of people at Bill Knapp's scare you away. They've got the fastest seating routine of anyplace around.)

The next theme I opted for was the kind of mail we've been receiving lately. I can tell now why B. G. spent so much time lost in the travel section of the newspaper this winter. I suspect that he got a few cards off hither, thither and yon since, to date, we've gotten four letters and as many catalogs from cruise companies that sail the Caribbean; a packet from the Mississippi steamboat people, three brochures and kits from warm-weather golfing locales and — now how'd THAT get in there? — Of all things that delayed-billing packet from Christmas-shopping at "that store."

Now, no one would give a hoot to read a column on our pipe-dream trips to those exotic ports-of-call or our imaginary holes-in-one at some sun-drenched golf club. As for espousing on the subject of "Christmas in March" — now who'd be interested in a knock-down, drag-out argument? I can just envision everyone yawning and shrugging their shoulders.

You'd have thought that somewhere in all that parcel post we'd have gotten a letter from the kindfol though. How come Jim Bradley has all the luck with relatives who provide the seeds for his Brighter Side?

Well, I'm sorry to admit folks, but I just can't come up with a subject for this week's column.

Slabaugh among BHS former band directors

One of the nine directors to shape the Belleville High School Band program was J. Ross Slabaugh who held the reins of directorship from 1946 to 1948.

A native of Elkhart, Ind., he received his teacher training in music at Indiana University and did graduate work at the University of Cincinnati and Northwestern University.

Prior to arriving in Belleville he taught for 13 years in Indiana schools then spent three years in military service.

On leaving Belleville in 1948 he taught vocal music in the Dearborn Schools at Fordson High School. And in 1963 he was appointed assistant principal at Edsel Ford High School where he retired in 1972.

Sharin' o' the green

Pamper a sweet tooth with a lovely remedy. A filling of Jell-O pistachio instant pudding and pie filling combines creamy smoothness with crunchy texture plus the taste of almonds and pistachio nuts. With St. Patrick's Day approaching, what could be a prettier dessert for your special luncheon or at dinner time than a luscious cake roll filled with a yummy green filling. Or how about making two and then sharing them with an Irish neighbor? (Photo courtesy Jell-O Instant pudding and pie filling.)

Somethin' for St. Patrick's Day

New Jell-O pistachio instant pudding and pie filling has joined the famous family at a time when pudding cakes are so popular. This nutty new dessert makes a great cake, and the recipes for two such cakes are on the pouch of each package. Local markets and grocers have the new product on shelves now.

Former librarian is guest speaker at HV Garden Club

The Huron Valley Garden Club held its March meeting last week at the home of Mrs. William Hennells on Huron River Drive.

Speaker for the day was Mrs. Rose Vincent, a former librarian at Belleville High School and Eastern Michigan University, who reviewed books on gardening and preservation of our natural resources. Some of the subjects discussed were wildflowers, the wilderness areas and wetlands, edible wild plants and preservation of our own gardens by organic gardening.

It was voted to send a delegate to the conservation camp at Higgins Lake this summer. Mrs. Lynn Hamilton is in charge of arrangements.

Six members of the club were hostesses at the Horticulture Workshop of District One of the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan held March 4 at the First Presbyterian Church of Dearborn. Mrs. James Kause, Mrs. Melvin Budd, Mrs. Rodney Mast, Mrs. Helen White, Mrs. William Hennells and Mrs. Lawrence Zager carried out the hostess detail.

St. Pat's Day theme used at PM lunch

The Past Matrons' Association of Belleville Chapter No. 73, Order of the Eastern Star, met at the First United Methodist Church on March 3 with Past Matron Ada Sager hostess.

Present for the 12:30 o'clock luncheon, served by several ladies of the UMW were 13 members and one guest, the Worthy Matron, Anita Nicholson. Tables were decorated in a St. Patrick's Day theme with green plants for center pieces which were later given to those holding the lucky numbers.

A short business meeting was conducted by the president, Eva Luper, with devotions in charge of the Chaplain, Dorothy Kellas. The hostess presented a couple of paper and pencil games with awards being won by Joyce Maki and Effie Kerbyson.

The April hostess will be Past Matron Florence Sugars who will entertain at her home 34633 Elm St., Wayne, on April 7.

creamy, smooth Jell-O instant pudding and pie filling. Simply add to 2 cups of cold milk, beat slowly with rotary beater or at lowest speed of electric mixer until well blended — about two minutes. Pour at once into four serving dishes for a luscious pudding dessert. Or, turn out a handsome prize pie according to package directions if that's what you have in mind.

To bake a cake that's moist, fine-textured and a conversation piece, use recipes for the Pistachio Marble Cake or Pistachio Nut Swirl Cake printed on the pouch of the mix. It all starts with a package (2-layer size) of yellow cake mix and new pistachio instant pudding and pie filling. Whether served as spoonable pudding or as forkable pie or cake, the versatile new nutty dessert is a taste experience.

Pistachio Cake Roll

- ¾ cup sifted cake flour
- ¾ teaspoon double-acting baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 4 eggs (at room temperature)
- ¾ cup granulated sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted (optional)
- Confectioners sugar
- 1 package (4-serving size) pistachio instant pudding and pie filling
- 1½ cups milk
- 1 tablespoon orange liqueur (optional)
- Sweet Chocolate Glaze

Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Beat eggs in large bowl at high speed of electric mixer or with hand beater, adding granulated sugar gradually and beating until mixture becomes fluffy, thick, and light colored, about 5 minutes. Gradually fold in flour mixture; then vanilla and butter. Pour batter into a 15 x 10-inch jelly roll pan which has been greased, lined with paper on bottom and greased again. Bake at 400 degrees for 13 minutes. Turn cake out onto cloth sprinkled lightly with confectioners sugar. Quickly remove paper and trim off crisp edges of cake. Starting with short side, roll up cake in cloth. Cool on a rack about 30 minutes. Prepare pudding mix with milk as directed on package for pudding. Stir in liqueur and let stand 5 minutes. Unroll cake, fill with pudding mixture and reroll, leaving end underneath. Spread with glaze and chill.

Sweet Chocolate Glaze. Heat ½ package (9 squares) sweet cooking chocolate, 1½ teaspoons butter or margarine and 1½ tablespoons water in saucepan over low heat until chocolate is melted. Blend into ½ cup confectioners sugar; add dash of salt and ¼ teaspoon vanilla. Makes ½ cup.

Future brides busy with wedding plans

ELLIOTT-DAVIS

A former Belleville couple, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Elliott of Roscommon, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Pamela Gay, to Dwight Allen Davis.

Miss Elliott, who was Belleville's Junior Miss during her senior year at Belleville High School, is a 1972 BHS alumna. In 1976 she earned her bachelor of music degree at Indiana University in Bloomington.

She now resides at 4900 S. Rio Grande, 12-D, Orlando, Fla. where she is a violinist with the Florida Symphony Orchestra.

Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davis of 122 Crab Orchard Lane, Somerset, Ky. A 1969 graduate of Indiana University, he holds a bachelor of music education degree and is currently doing graduate level work there and at the University of South Florida.

He resides at 102 Matterhorn Way, Las Vegas, Nev. where he works as bass trombonist for the Tropicana Hotel Production Show.

Trinity Episcopal Church of Belleville has been reserved for the young couple's July 9 wedding.

CHEEK-PAPADOPOULOS

A wedding in Limassol, Cyprus in late May is being planned by Linda S. Cheek of Belleville and Dr. Haralambos I. Papadopoulos of Saudi Arabia, formerly of Ann Arbor.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Cheek of 45220 Sunrise Lane, Belleville. She graduated from Belleville High School in 1968 and earned her bachelor of science degree at Eastern Michigan University in 1972 where she also was editor of the college yearbook. She later attended Cleary College, graduating in 1973, and then pursued graduate studies at both EMU and the University of Michigan.

She is employed as a marketing representative for Michigan Bell Telephone.

Her fiancé currently is in Saudi Arabia working for a consulting engineering office. The son of Mrs. Helen Papadopoulos of Limassol, Cyprus, and the late John Papadopoulos, he attended high school in Athens, Greece.

In 1968 he graduated from the University of Manchester, United Kingdom, earning bachelor of science honors. He was awarded his MSCE and Ph. D. at Wayne State University in 1974 and became a post-doctoral scholar at the University of Michigan in 1975. He is affiliated with Chi Epsilon fraternity.

SMITH-WICKLUND

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Smith of 46041 Traskos Ave., Belleville, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Sharon Lynn, to Ralph G. Wicklund II, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph G. Wicklund of 6731 Middlebelt Rd., Romulus.

Both young people are employed at Arborland Shopping Center, she at Kroger, Westgate, and he at Montgomery Ward.

The Willow Run Church of God in Ypsilanti will be the setting for the couple's March 26 wedding.

SOTOMAYOR-GOIKE

A November 12 altar date has been selected by Gloria A. Sotomayor for her marriage to Robert T. Goike.

Their daughter's engagement and nuptial plans are announced by Mr. and Mrs. Miguel A. Sotomayor of 12498 Beck Rd., Belleville.

The bride-to-be is a 1973 graduate of Belleville High School currently employed by the Environmental Research Institute of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

The prospective bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Goike of 38065 Jamison Rd., Livonia, graduated in 1971 from Bishop-Borgess High School. He is presently employed at the Professional Sports Center.

The First United Methodist Church of Belleville has been reserved for the fall wedding.

Bowling Green senior, Jeff Liedel, named to scholar athlete roster

Bowling Green State University senior swimming co-captain, Jeff Liedel, is about to complete a very successful career as a member of the Falcon swim team. Liedel has lettered all four seasons and led the squad to a 3-7 dual meet record this season against such MAC powers as Kent State, Miami, Northern Illinois and non-conference foes like Notre Dame and Ohio Conference perennial champ, Kenyon.

The Belleville native attended Belleville High School and was a member of the varsity swimming team all four years.

At Bowling Green this year he has competed in several events and has compiled times of 23.8, 50.8, 1:49.5 and 3:20.5 in the 50, 100 and 200 yard freestyle events along with the 400 freestyle relay. Liedel is the school record holder in the 200 freestyle with the time of 1:47.8.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Liedel of 13107 Edgedale, Belleville, the BGSU senior is majoring in sales and was recently named to Bowling Green's scholar athlete roster fall quarter for achieving a grade average of 3.00.

Methodists set Ashram Retreat

The First United Methodist Church, 417 Charles St., Belleville, is the location of a Christian Ashram Retreat to be held on March 18 from 7 to 10 p.m. and March 19 from 9 to 4 p.m.

What is an Ashram? The word ASHRAM is from the Sanskrit meaning a "retreat". A spiritual leader with his followers goes apart for a disciplined corporate quest for a deeper spiritual growth that will make God more real in one's daily living.

The Rev. Gordon Hunter of Ontario, Canada, an Evangelist for United Christian Ashrams, will be leader using the Bible, lectures, small group process, prayer, singing, etc. in the corporate and individual quest for God's will.

The Rev. Hunter has had a wide experience of speaking at conventions, rallies and in world-wide travel. He has been associated with the Ashram movement since its inception.

The Ashram is open to the public but the participants must sign in for the entire session.

Grow ivy, a pet houseplant

Versatility could be the middle name of English ivy (Hedera helix). This twining plant comes in a variety of leaf sizes and colors and can be used in many ways — in hanging baskets and terrariums, as ground covers in mixed planting and as climbing specimen plants.

A sunny kitchen or bathroom window usually provides the best combination of growing conditions, suggest Michigan State University horticulturists. Bright light or full sun and high humidity are ideal. The all-green forms of English ivy easily can be maintained at lower light levels, but variegated forms need more light.

Pot English ivy in a standard houseplant potting soil and keep it moderately moist at all times. If the soil dries out, growing tips will turn brown. Fertilize three or four times a year with a commercial houseplant fertilizer. Watch for spider mites and scale insects, especially if temperatures are much higher than 60-65 degrees during the day and 45-50 degrees at night. Insect problems tend to be worse at higher temperatures, the experts advise.

Propagation is easy — cuttings will root and grow very nicely in water.

Clothes: Investment with a future

This white sundress with gold sputache trim, in Trevira linen, with front laced bodice is modeled by Jane Hitchcock, star of "Nickelodeon". Matching mandarin-style jacket makes this dress suitable for day-through-evening wear.

For today's newly-independent women, real independence means freedom to choose . . . whether it be clothes, unusual careers or the way they invest their money.

Hoechst Fibers, producer of fibers for the Trevira trademark, Harper's Bazaar Magazine and Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, the leading financial services company, support what they call "investment dressing", and it's right in tune with today's independent women. At the same time that today's young women are learning what financial investments are all about, they're realizing what a true "investment" quality clothes can be.

Four manufacturing firms, Gamut, Rona, Acting Up and Picato offer such quality in Trevira linen looks and Trevira Star silky looks for Spring 1977. Each piece of clothing in the individual ensembles also can stand by itself, and the clothes from the designers' Spring 1976 and Spring 1978 collections can be mixed and matched so that each item of clothing will remain in your wardrobe for much longer than one season. Women are learning that this is the way investment purchases are made, and it's an added plus when the designer plans ahead for the customer.

This is the way that the independent women of today are dressing. And for those who are not interested in investing only in clothes, Merrill Lynch offers some tips on the language of financial investing.

A short blazer double-breasted suit with stock tie blouse by Don Sayres of Gamut is in Trevira and rayon. The suit itself and each individual part are the epitome of "investment dressing" because they'll last together and apart for seasons to come.

Rosanna creates ombre striping in a slim tunic of Acrilan acrylic which can be worn for late day as well as for casual wear.

Men are dressing up Stripes make scene

Men have been dressing up recently, and according to fashion experts, this trend is in full swing for both the young and mature.

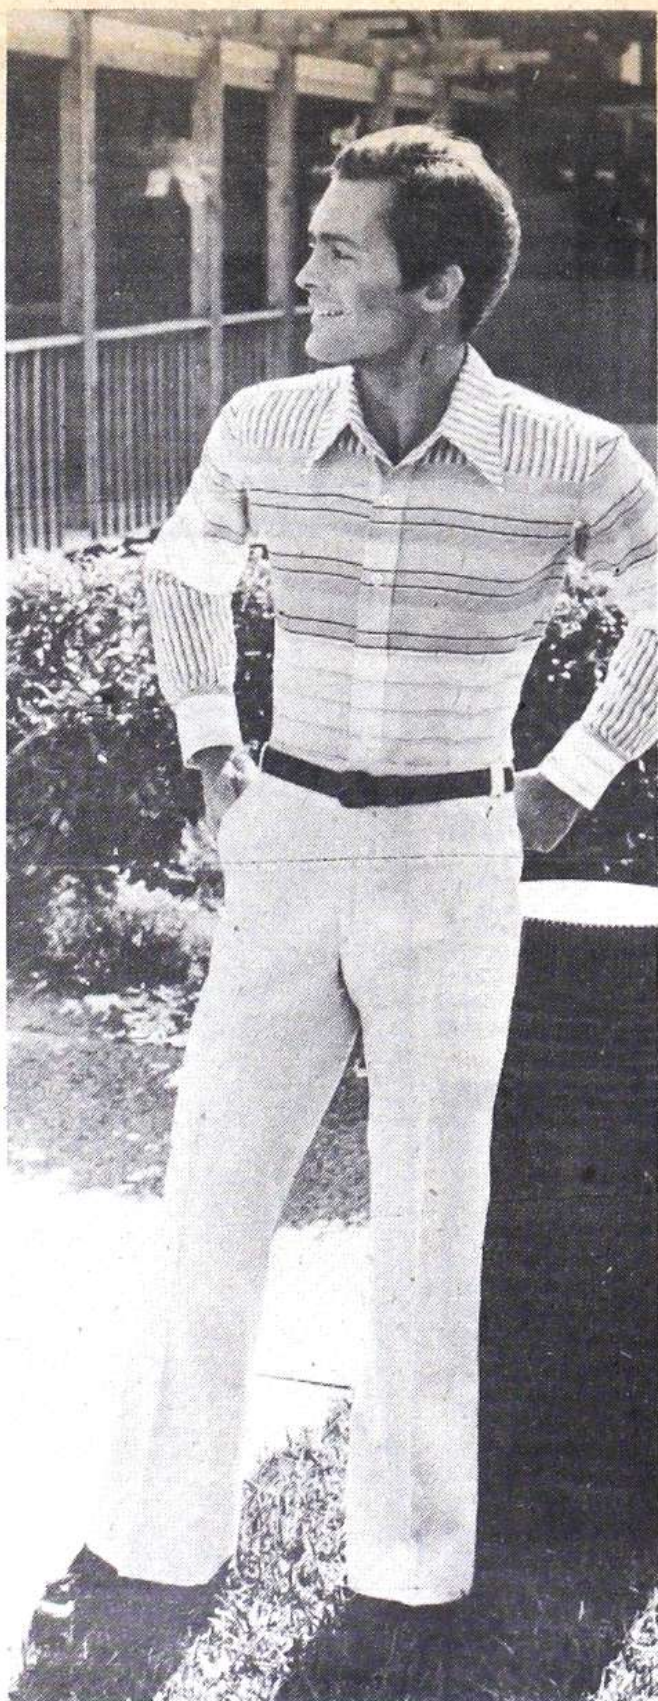

Sport shirts, dress shirts and slacks reflect this dress-up mood with classic styling and cleaner colorations. To men who prefer the "well-bred" look, nothing is worse than clothes that go limp or rumple at day's end. That's why fabric is important when choosing apparel. Fashions made with modern fibers, such as Kodel polyester, are in tune with the times . . . they're wrinkle and crease resistant, easy to wear and they machine wash and dry.

Casual slacks look best this season with sport shirts in crisp fabrications that stay fresh throughout the day. Shirts with stripes make the fashion points, and the newest stripes are "engineered". On a sportier note, knit pullovers with white, red, blue and black stripings on white or cream grounds are important.

Dress shirts to wear for business and more formal occasions have been directly inspired by the well-dressed look, and the vested suit. Elegant colors in the pale, cool range complement the new classic styles. There also are many handsome yarn-dyes, stripes and plaids, in slightly brighter tones. When made in a pin-stripe with solid collar and cuffs, shirts have a sophisticated, traditional look.

Just as women have been adding many fashionable items to their wardrobes, men are doing the same. Slacks for sport and leisure wear have pleats, extra pockets or fancy waist treatments such as side tabs or buckles. Linen-look, twills, poplins and canvas return to favor in this area. Men are adding dress slacks to their wardrobes in a variety of colors. Blue, green, rust, grey, navy and camel are popular choices. Dress slacks with straighter legs and cleaner lines are fashion-right.

For Spring-Summer '77 classic styling, fabrications and patterns epitomize the dress-up trend in men's wear.

Pace-setting stripes go in all directions this spring. Featured in three colors, this shirt from Monticello is made in an engineered stripe of polyester and cotton from Pressman-Gutman. Metro's linen look pants are a must for the up-to-date man. They're made in an easy care Brittany fabric of polyester, rayon and flax.

Restaurant Review

by Lee Smith, ANP's Roving Connoisseur

...Flag's of Belleville

The Belleville area's first 24-hour restaurant, although in a slightly different location at I-94 and Belleville Road and under a new label, is still pleasing patrons with its fast, efficient service.

Flag's, which had its beginnings as a counter-service-only eatery, is now quadrupled in size with both counter and booth seating as well as a large section of tables at one end to accommodate groups.

The dining area's spotless facade is reflected in huge plate glass windows which make up the north and west sides of the building. The food preparation alcove, entirely visible to diners, is equally shiny and clean.

Local patrons have long availed themselves of the good food and rapid service afforded by Flag's. A staff of 40, under the management of Phil Brigandi, takes turns during the 'round-the-clock operation.

Assistant manager David Wilson and waitress Jane Light are two Belleville residents who've chalked up a bit of longevity with the company — David with seven years and Jane with 13. We hear from satisfied customers that Jane should be billed as the company's good will ambassador.

After Phil explained that all soups as well as chili were homemade "from scratch", I couldn't resist sampling mushroom barley which came steaming in a large bowl. The beef-based broth, rich with mushroom pieces, chunks of carrot and a fine-grain barley, was delicious.

Debi, pretty, pleasant and capable, took care of the three of us serving mugs of coffee and a pot of tea immediately; later bringing cottage cheese and tossed salads. The bowls of crisp lettuce included Swiss cheese, radishes and tomato topped with a slice of artichoke heart and wedge of lemon. The Roquefort dressing was delicate and not ladled on too heavily.

Marinated beef kabobs, which I ordered medium, were skewers loaded with cubes of sirloin colorfully alternated with cherry tomatoes, pieces of green pepper and portions of onion. Bert enjoyed a fluffy mushroom omelette and hashed browns with a golden crisp crust while Carol put away the 7-ounce sirloin. All were very tasty, all served HOT.

What's nice for those who prefer something other than potato with their dinner is the list of goodies you can substitute. How's this group — soup, juices, fruit cup, cottage cheese, German potato salad, cup of chili or sundaes?

Much to our chagrin we were "to capacity" when asked about dessert. There we sat eyeing the beautiful homemade tarts mounded with plump strawberries and the equally handsome (and homemade) banana cream pie and we were TOO FULL! Sob!

One of the highlights at Flag's (and this one's a real rarity anymore) is freshly-squeezed orange juice. M-m-m! And the best link sausage around (five of 'em on a skewer) can be found at Flag's.

Breakfasts are super. We know since we've had them at all hours of

At Flag's with Jim

the day — morning, noon and late at night.

Prices, you're asking, if you've yet to pay a visit. Okay, how about two eggs, toast, potatoes and ham at $1.80? Or the sirloin at $4.50? (roll, salad, choice of potato or the aforementioned)? Chef salad at $2.25? Sandwiches, all kinds, 75 cents on up to $3.60 (sirloin on toast)? It's nice to know meats are delivered fresh daily and cut on the premises.

Desserts, fountain specialties (REAL ice cream, gang) and a variety of beverages can also satisfy that "Let's stop and get a snack" mood.

And although Flag's will be changing to a different menu in the near future (freshly-made yogurt to be among the newcomers) the present policies will remain the same. As the menu states — "We are firm advocates of the 'truth' law."

Stop by any of company president James Lyos' three places — they're identified by a knife and fork logo in Romulus (near the airport) and Monroe as well as Belleville.

And when you do, please let the managers know you read about Flag's in the Associated Newspapers.

DSO's '77-78 season full of promises

Anatal Dorati debuts as director

When the Detroit Symphony Orchestra (DSO) performs at the first subscription concert of the 1977-78 season in Ford Auditorium on Sept. 22, the orchestra will open the doors on what promises to be the most exciting era in its history.

The season will witness the debut of Antal Dorati as the orchestra's music director.

Detroit Symphony Executive Director Marshall W. Turkin has announced the new season, which is comprised of 15 major series in 25 subscription weeks that run through May 6, 1978, plus a 2-week Beethoven Festival in the fall of 1977.

Antal Dorati, who was named DSO Music Director last November, makes his first appearances in that role at the orchestra's first annual 2-week festival, scheduled to take place during the regular subscription concert season at Ford Auditorium. A concept introduced by Maestro Dorati, this year's festival event will be a tribute to Beethoven, featuring seven performances between Nov. 2 and 13. Along with four all-Beethoven concerts, Dorati will conduct six weeks of subscription concerts as well as special concerts to be announced at a later date.

The list of illustrious conductors in return engagements includes Andrew Davis, music director of the Toronto Symphony; Eduardo Mata, music director of the Phoenix and Dallas symphony orchestras; Werner Torkanowsky, music director of the New Orleans Philharmonic; and Germany's Klaus Tennstedt. Former DSO music director Sixten Ehrling, who currently is head of the Juilliard School's conducting department and an active Metropolitan Opera conductor, will return for two weeks during the 1977-78 season.

Making debut conducting appearances with the Orchestra will be Israel's Moshe Atzmon, music director in Basle; Gary Bertini, founder and former music director of the Israel Chamber Orchestra; Zdenek Macal, general music director, Cologne Radio Symphony Orchestra; and one of France's most respected conductors, Georges Pretre.

Conducting Detroit Symphony Chamber Orchestra concerts will be Szymon Goldberg, music director of the Netherlands Chamber Orchestra; Neville Marriner, conductor of the Academy of St. Martin-in-the-Fields in London; and Raymond Leppard, well known for his recordings with the English Chamber Orchestra, who will be making his DSO debut appearance.

Current DSO Conductor-in-Residence Paul Freeman also appears on next season's regular subscription concert schedule, as well as assistant conductor Philip Greenberg and principal Pops conductor Richard Hayman, who will handle Young People's and Weekender Pops conducting assignments respectively.

Among the world's greatest concert artists who will perform with the Detroit Symphony during the 1977 subscription season will be pianist Martha Argerich and flutist Jean Pierre Rampal, both of whom will be making DSO debuts.

Returning instrumentalists will include pianists Bryon Janis, Horacio Gutierrez, James Tocco, Alicia Delarocha, Bruno Leonardo Gelber, Gary Graffman, Eugene Istomin, Alexis Weissenberg, Ilse von Alpenheim, Sir Clifford Curzon and John Browning.

The violinists that will appear with the symphony will be Pinchas Zukerman, Itzhak Perlman, Isaac Stern and Henryk Szeryng.

Other instrumentalists slated to appear during the 1977-78 season will be Ervin Monroe, orchestra principle flutist; Robert Williams, orchestra principle bassoonist; Italo Babini, orchestra principle cellist; Janos Starker, cellist; Donald Baker, orchestra principle oboist; and Elyze Ilku, orchestra co-principle harpist.

Singing with the DSO will be Heather Harper, soprano, and Peter Lager, bass, as well as Jessye Norman, soprano; John Alexander, tenor; the Kenneth Jewell Chorale, Rackham Symphony Choir and Brazeal Dennard Chorale.

The prospectus for the 1977-78 subscription season, the orchestra's 64th, has been mailed to present season ticket subscribers. Deadline for renewal of present seat locations is April 30. Applications for new subscriptions to all series will be accepted now through the opening performance of individual series.

Copies of the new prospectus are available at the Detroit Symphony office in Ford Auditorium or will be mailed upon request by calling 961-0700.

Chamber Players premiere at Cranbrook Festival '77

The premier Detroit area performances of the Boston Symphony Chamber Players and the outstanding Greek pianist Vasso Devetzi will headline Cranbrook Festival '77 in May.

The baroque classical music festival May 12-15 at Christ Church Cranbrook also will feature the Flint Symphony Chamber Orchestra, with John Covelli, conducting; the Wayne State University Chamber Choir, Harry Langford, Directing; the Baldwin-Wallace Brass Quintet, and William DeTurk, assistant carillonneur at the University of Michigan.

The Boston Chamber Players, comprised of the principal string, brass and timpani players of the Boston Symphony, are acknowledged masters in their field.

Created in 1964, the Chamber Players toured Europe three times and have presented concerts in the Soviet Union, U.S. Virgin Islands and South America. They have recorded for RCA and Deutsche Grammophon and earned a coveted Grammy Award for their very first album.

A brilliant artist, Miss Devetzi has appeared with every major European orchestra, recorded with most of them, and performed at Europe's major music festivals and in South America. In 1970, Miss Devetzi was paid the supreme compliment by being asked to play with Rostropovich as a duo.

Marking its inaugural performance at the festival, the Flint Symphony Chamber Orchestra will perform works by Mozart and Haydn under the direction of its new conductor, John Covelli. One of the most versatile and impressive young musical talents on the podium today, Covelli conducts in a style that combines musical sensitivity with extraordinary vitality.

The Wayne State University Chamber Choir makes its second appearance at Cranbrook Festival this May. Specializing in 17th, 18th and 20th century music the choir is directed by Dr. Harry M. Langford, professor of Music at Wayne, a member of the American Choral Directors Association, and a past president of the Intercollegiate Music Council. The choir has had several very successful European tours and twice won first place in world competition at Wales.

The Baldwin-Wallace Brass Quintet, marking its sixth visit to the Festival, will perform chorales from the west porch roof prior to each of the 8:30 p.m. weekday performances.

The free Carillon Recital by William DeTurk has been set for Sunday afternoon at 4 p.m. Cranbrook Festival '77 is sponsored by the Cranbrook Music Guild Inc. Tickets are available by calling 646-3595.

Czech folk company plan Music Hall performance

The exciting Czechoslovakian Folk Company, BROLN, consisting of 35 singers, dancers and musicians, will appear at the Music Hall Center for the Performing Arts at 8:30 p.m. March 28 as part of a 35-city North American tour.

BROLN (Bresnsky Rozhlasovy Orchestra Lidovych Nastroju, or the Brno Broadcasting Orchestra for Folk Music) is the permanent folk company of the Czech province of Moravia, and is based in the historic capital of Brno. The company offers a 2-hour program of authentic folk dances and songs performed by entertainers dressed in the brilliant regional costumes of Southern Czechoslovakia.

At home, BROLN has enjoyed endless popularity ever since it was founded in 1952, and outside their native land, the company has toured to Great Britain, Poland, Germany, Belgium, Austria, the Netherlands, the Soviet Union, East Asia and West Africa for the past 20 years. Highly acclaimed during the initial North American tour in 1972, this marks the first return visit of the company.

The best description of a BROLN performance comes from their own herald, which reads: "Take the traditions of old and new Czechoslovakia; add the colors and charm of native costumes; sprinkle generously with the folk melodies of the land of Anton Dvorak; add the vitality and vigor of swirling native dances; and blend thoroughly with an attractive youthful company of 35 singers, dancers and musicians ... and you have BROLN."

Tickets are available at the Music Hall box office, 350 Madison Avenue, from 12 to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday. For special group discounts, call Joan Heidt at 963-7622.

The 'blitz' is coming

Kidney Foundation campaign seeks organ donors

Residents in the Detroit metropolitan area will be "blitzed" Friday and Saturday, but it won't be the start of a war...rather the start of a state-wide campaign to call attention to the need for kidney donors.

The kidney donor blitz days are being coordinated by the Kidney Foundation of Michigan, a United Foundation-United Way agency, and will provide residents with an opportunity to obtain organ donor information during March, National Kidney Month.

Co-sponsored in the tri-county area by the United Foundation and the Kidney Foundation, kidney donor cards will be available both days at all Meijer Thrifty Acres pharmacy counters and Cunningham's, Perry and Arnold drugstores.

On Saturday, the focus will be on shopping malls, with members of local Kidney Foundation chapters staffing booths at Oakland, Southland, Westland and Harvard Row (12 Mile and Lasher) shopping centers. Donor cards will be available at the booths, and shoppers will be able to pick up donor materials and speak to local transplant patients.

An estimated 400 to 500 patients suffer kidney failure each year in Michigan. These people have two options open to them. They can choose dialysis (artificial kidney machine treatment) or a kidney transplant. Close to 400 Michigan residents now are living productive lives after successful kidney transplant surgery.

Many patients do well on dialysis and choose it as their permanent treatment. For others, transplantation is the treatment of choice. Close to 900 Michigan residents currently are on dialysis, and some 400 others are living productive lives after kidney transplant surgery.

Kidneys used in transplants come from two main sources, a living blood relative (brother, sister, father, mother, offspring), or from a person who has died — a cadaver kidney. Kidney transplantation is no longer considered experimental. It has become an accepted medical procedure.

In 1975, 138 cadaver kidneys were transplanted in Michigan, while 35 kidneys were transplanted from related donors. In 1976, 112 cadaver kidneys were transplanted.

The Kidney Foundation's "sister" agency — the Transplantation Society of Michigan (TSM) — currently lists close to 100 people waiting for cadaver kidneys. This long waiting list is necessary because not enough kidneys are being donated.

A shared goal of the Kidney Foundation and TSM is to build a continuously expanding "pool" of potential cadaver donors so that this waiting list ultimately can be minimized.

To facilitate this, the Kidney Foundation is continuously involved in a state-wide educational effort to inform the public about organ donation and the Uniform Organ Donor Card. When signed and witnessed by two people, this wallet-sized card becomes a legal document enabling its carrier to will his or her kidneys or other organs for transplant purposes.

Currently, there are 11 hospitals in the state that perform kidney transplants. They are Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak; Children's Hospital of Michigan, Henry Ford Hospital, Hutzel Hospital and Mt. Carmel Mercy Hospital and Medical Center, all in Detroit; Hurley Hospital in Flint; E.W. Sparrow Hospital in Lansing; St. Mary's Hospital in Grand Rapids; Borgess Hospital, Michigan Nephrology Center, in Kalamazoo; University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor and Veterans Administration Hospital in Ann Arbor.

A chance of finding an excellent tissue match between unrelated persons is about 1 in 1,000, so a large pool of donors is necessary to find the ideal match for each patient. Each year many thousands of patients could be helped if more kidney donors were available. The public can help the Kidney Foundation reach its goal of minimizing the wait for transplants by supporting the kidney "blitz" Friday and Saturday.

League backs breastfeeding despite PBB contamination

The La Leche League, an organization that promotes the breastfeeding of infants, remains convinced of the benefits of breastfeeding despite the PBB contaminant scare.

After "exhaustive research" on the subject, by medical and scientific experts, "it was the general consensus that on the basis of current information, there is no reason to discourage the practice of breastfeeding for the general population in Michigan", the La Leche League said. Local La Leche promoter is Sherry Rydinsky of Belleville, who belongs to the area chapter.

According to her information, the league believes the benefits of breast feeding to outweigh the "inconclusive" PBB results.

PBB, a chemical compound used as a fire retardant, was accidentally mixed with feed of cattle in Michigan in 1973. Meat and dairy products, therefore, contained traces of the chemical and not until 1974 did the FDA discover it and prohibit selling of food with PBB levels above a certain point.

According to the La Leche League data, Michigan poultry, eggs, milk fat, cheese and butter no longer have detectable amounts of PBB. Meat occasionally is found to have measurable amounts, particularly hamburger because of the fat content. The chemical is stored in fat cells.

The league recommends, therefore, that if one wants to be extra careful while breastfeeding, she should avoid pre-ground beef and grind her own meat that is lean.

In addition, she should eat an adequate, nutritious diet, avoiding crash diets, so that her body will not use up the fat cells that contain the chemical in her own body.

The league lists several benefits of breastfeeding, including an increased disease immunity in the infant, freedom from exposure to allergies that may be in cows' milk and aid in preventing infections. The breast milk is "nutritionally perfect for the human infant, the league added.

"What all the concern over PBB really comes down to is depriving an infant of the proven benefits of breastfeeding in exchange for about six months worth of freedom from the unproven hazards of small amounts of PBB. During those months, the infant is exposed to the dietary inadequacies and risks to health associated with formulas," the league literature stated.

There are nearly 3,000 La Leche League groups in 42 countries throughout the world. It is a nonsectarian, nonprofit organization dedicated to "good mothering through breastfeeding."

White House conference like Continental Congress

By BILL KISER

The 1977 White House Conference on Handicapped Individuals is in many ways similar to the Continental Congress of 1774. The goal of both the Congress and the conference is freedom. The difference is that the freedom which the Continental Congress wrought for most Americans has not extended to physically and mentally handicapped people. The White House conference is out to change that.

The delegates to the White House conference, which will be held May 23-27 at the Sheraton Park Hotel in Washington, D.C., will be 50 percent handicapped, 25 percent parents or guardians of disabled people, and the remaining 25 percent representing consumer and provider organizations, business or labor, and professionals.

Pre-Conference activities have included meetings and workshops in all 50 states. Anyone who has attended a pre-conference gathering is acutely aware of the broad range of problems confronting handicapped people in America today. It is equally clear that handicapped people themselves have diverse viewpoints on what should be done.

As a handicapped person with my own problems and interests, I found myself frustrated at pre-conference meetings when no one seemed to agree on the proper course of action. On the other hand, I recognized that this is what democracy is all about—people with different problems and viewpoints working for a common solution.

Like our colonial forefathers, we who are handicapped today feel that we have just grievances. The White House conference may not be as dramatic as all-night vigils staged by people in wheelchairs, but it promises to have greater impact on the welfare of handicapped people. If delegates to the conference have rigid and uncompromising viewpoints, we stand to gain nothing and may lose the first real opportunity to enrich the lives of handicapped people of future generations.

As we study our U. S. Constitution and reflect on the ideals behind it, we may be inclined to overestimate the people who wrote it. If we had tape recordings of the Continental Congress, we would no doubt hear some selfish and shortsighted ideas.

And it is safe to say that the records and transcripts of the White House conference will reveal many such remarks and sentiments. But in some miraculous way, the Continental Congress was able to establish a new nation and to guarantee the individual's citizenship which entitled him to a greater degree of human dignity than the world had ever known.

The White House conference will not attempt to establish a new nation; its task will be to insure that all of the rights and responsibilities which the Continental Congress established for individual citizenship are secured for disabled Americans.

Those of us who may doubt our adequacies in securing these rights should remember that the Continental Congress was composed of people from all walks of life and all intellectual levels. They had in common a belief that they were created free men with the ability to control their own destinies. We hold these beliefs despite whatever impairments we have, and we are determined that society's ignorance and unconcern should not exclude us from basic human freedom.

The White House conference will seek an end to the discrimination against handicapped people and try to change the mainstream of American thinking. If it succeeds, it will further the ideals and philosophies of the first Continental Congress as it relates to disabled people. If successful, it will truly be the Continental Congress of 1977.

Goodwill set for annual sale

"Think Spring" will be the theme of the in-the-plant sale to be held at the Goodwill Building of League for the Handicapped-Goodwill Industries, located at 6522 Brush at Grand Boulevard in Detroit, from 9 a.m. tomorrow.

The sale, which is an annual event at Goodwill Industries, will feature large quantities of all kinds of spring clothing which has been renovated by handicapped workers. Included are coats, slacks, dresses, blouses, shirts, pants, and many other articles for the entire family. All items are sized and ready to wear.

Originated in 1959, the in-the-plant sale has become a late winter tradition at League-Goodwill. A large area of the building is set aside for the day to display merchandise before it is shipped out to the Goodwill retail stores. An entire family can be outfitted in spring clothing for only a few dollars.

The Goodwill Division of League-Goodwill collects usable household articles and takes them to the main production plant. After sorting, clothing is renovated, sized, and priced and shipped to Goodwill retail stores. Income from store sales pays the wages of the workers.

Free parking is available next to the Goodwill Building. League-Goodwill is a Torch Drive Agency.

'Its no secret, I knew about it'

Trustee Bob Meyers brought to the township boards attention Tuesday night, an apparent "secret meeting" that was held by the newly formed Police Commission.

According to Meyers, "I was driving by the township Hall, last Saturday night and saw Brian Schwall, Gene Daley, and John Flodin holding an unpublished meeting." Meyers elaborated, "I'm a firm supporter of the open meetings Act, and I'm curious as to why you gentlemen had a secret meeting?"

Responding to Meyers inquiry, Flodin, half in jest said, "Why it wasn't a secret, we knew about it."

Flodin explained, "We talked about personnel matters, our activities, our charge by the board, and basic rules, and procedures we need to go by." He added, "Personnel matters are allowed to be talked about in private even under the open meetings act."

But Myers said, "You didn't confine your meeting to personnel matters, and therefore it was a secret meeting."

'You're under arrest, please call a taxi'

Canton Township Supervisor Harold Stein has just ordered the Police Department to disallow anyone other than "Police Personnel" from riding in the patrol cars, unless the department calls Stein for permission.

Does this mean the police department must call Stein before an arrested citizen is driven to the police station?

Right was wrong, but right

Max and John were buddies in VietNam, that is, until the day when they were running side-by-side across a clearing in Kassan.

A Viet Cong grenade intervened in their friendship that day.

As the grenade came lofting through the air, John dove to the left and Max dove to the right. The grenade landed near Max and went off just after he had tried to throw it back toward the enemy.

Both men were wounded by the blast and evacuated in the same helicopter.

John reported that he had last seen Max in the hospital where both his legs and one arm had been lost to the wounds inflicted by the grenade, and, "I was sure that he must have died."

Two weeks ago, John, who is now with the Detroit Free Press, picked up his morning newspaper and on the front page was a picture of his old Vietnam friend, receiving a hug from President Carter on the occasion of Max Cleveland being appointed to head the Veterans Administration.

John Kimball now wonders what might have happened had he run to the right instead of the left when that grenade exploded.

State runners-up

Cherry Hill tankers 2nd best in Class B

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

For the first time in the history of the high school, Cherry Hill has earned a coveted Class B state swimming trophy.

Coach Jerry Pawloski's Spartans finished second in the state to East Grand Rapids at the Class B championships held over the weekend in Ann Arbor at the University of Michigan.

The high school also can boast six state champs: Rick Kogelschatz, Scott Lillie, Mark Cotter, Dave Koslosky, Randy Wehrmeister and Eric Wohlfeil who helped win both the 200 yard medley relay and the 400-yard freestyle relay state titles.

Kogelschatz set a state record in capturing a gold medal in the 100-yard butterfly. He turned in a 52.26 to win the event. That time also was the fastest time in the state this year and bettered the Class A winning time posted by Dave Lagault of Ann Arbor Pioneer by two-tenths of a second.

Kogelschatz' performance keyed the Spartans' victory in the medley relay.

"We were trailing by a body's length after the breaststroke," Pawloski related, "and Rick swam a fantastic 23 seconds flat split for the 50-yard butterfly which gave us a half-body lead."

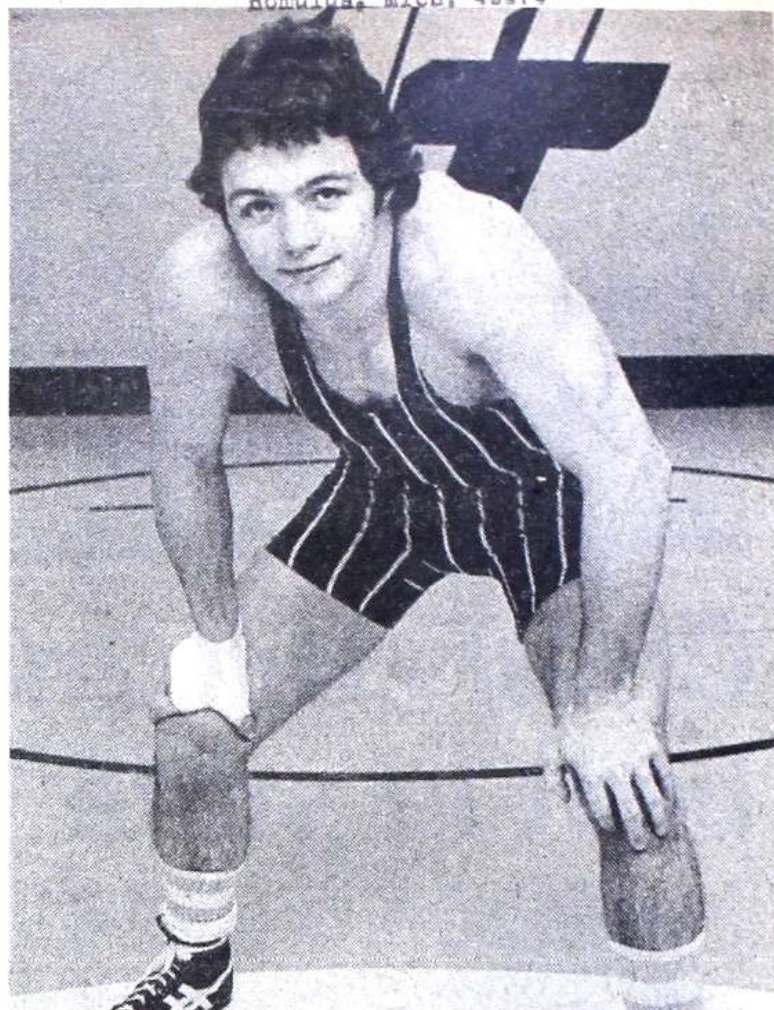

Koslosky then managed to protect the lead, beating East Grand Rapids' freestyler to the finish.

Rounding out the medley relay foursome were Lillie and Cotter who combined for a 1:41.6, which was two-tenths of a second off the Class B state record.

Cherry Hill's entry in the 400-yard freestyle included Wohlfeil, Wehrmeister, Lillie and Kogelschatz who teamed up for a 3:18.4. That performance also was three-tenths of a second off the state record of 3:18.1.

Doing his thing

Former Romulus High all-state wrestling great, Brad Smith, concluded his junior year at the University of Toledo with a sparkling 19-1 won-lost record. Smith, an all-American last year, is seeking the Mid-American Conference championship at the 142-pound class and a victory in the league will enable him to compete for the NCAA championship set for March 15-19 in Norman, Okla.

Romulus grappler eyes NCAA crown

Junior Brad Smith, a two-time all-state and a state Class A wrestling champ while at Romulus High, concluded the regular dual meet wrestling season at the University of Toledo with an outstanding 19-1 won-lost record.

Smith's only loss came in the opening tournament of the season last December on a last second, one-point loss to an all-American from Indiana.

Smith, an All-American himself a year ago at 142, is shooting for the Mid-American Conference championship tournament held last week at Ohio University in Athens, Ohio.

The ex-Romulus grappler must win the conference championship or finish second in order to qualify for the NCAA championships scheduled for March 15-19 in Norman, Okla.

Smith finished fourth in last year's NCAA to earn All-American recognition.

Another Romulus native, freshman LaMar Sandusky, concluded the regular season with a record of 10-7-1 at 118 pounds.

Getting ready for Spring

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

With Spring just around the corner we thought we'd do a bit of spring cleaning, of sorts, around here. We cleaned off the desk and found the following letters needed our immediate attention.

I would like to register a complaint about the write-up for Wayne High's swim team which ran in your March 10 edition. I feel the boys' picture should have been included.

Also, the 400-yard freestyle relay team qualified for the state finals but there was no mention of this accomplishment.

Let's give these boys some real recognition from our local newspaper, O.K.?

Mrs. Noreen Miles

Dear Mrs. Miles,

I know that Wayne Memorial's swim team isn't camera-shy. However, it was impossible to get a photographer to the Wayne pool in time for last week's deadline.

Coach Jim McPartlin was kind enough to rush a picture (negative) of his team to us last Sunday, but we just couldn't get the picture developed in time.

Keep tune to these pages, and I'm sure you and the Wayne High swim fans will see their minions in print next week.

I agree: Wayne and Coach McPartline have accomplished much this year and winning the Great Lakes 8 Conference swim championship is something to be very proud of.

Of that 400-yard freestyle relay team I must have somehow misplaced the information.

Tom Mooradian,
Sports Editor

Dear Tom,

The comment on Johnny Long and "his day" was fitting and proper. But, we fans here at Romulus don't understand why the local newspaper didn't give him a story before that night.

Also, how come you people didn't take a picture of Mr. Long and Ron Bostick when the plaques were presented to him? I feel that us fans shouldn't take the blame "for not filling the gym," after all, the only way most of us know what's going on is by reading our local newspaper.

Sincerely,
David Lipford.

True, we share in the blame for that poor turnout. (Romulus held a Johnny Long Night last month and only a handful of fans showed up to commemorate the evening. Long, a former all-stater from Romulus High, is presently the University of Detroit's leading scorer and is a candidate for All-American honors.)

It was our responsibility to inform the public about the newsworthy event and we "killed" the story in our column. We agree that more could have been done to make that night a memorable one for the outstanding cager.

As I pointed out in one of my columns, I feel Long deserved more from all of us.

And, again, it shows the importance of communication between our news sources: the schools, the coaches, the public officials — you name it — and the reporters.

Before we wrap it up for the week, let me remind all athletic directors in the area to mail in their spring sports schedules as soon as possible. Where a coaching change has been made, please include the new coach's name and telephone number.

Thank you.

to garner 210 points, easily won the team championship. Cherry Hill finished second with 109 points followed by Milan, which had 107 points.

"Our kids did a great job," Pawloski pointed out. "There was no way that we could have won the meet — Grand Rapids just had too much depth for all of us — but our kids proved that they are among the best in the state."

Pawloski noted, "that this is the first time in the school's history that we have won a team trophy in state-wide competition and this also gives us six state champs, the most in any sport at the high school."

Cherry Hill has had a state champ in track, Phil Siebold, and also an all-stater in basketball, Bob Fowler.

Northwest coaches pick top cagers

Dan Diadiun and Daran Armstrong, who played major roles in lifting Westland John Glenn from the cellar of the Northwest Suburban Conference to the conference championship this year were named to the all-conference team by the coaches in the league.

Diadiun, a 6-3, 170-pound senior, was the team's leading scorer and rebounder, while Armstrong, a sophomore, was the Rockets' playmaker.

Joining the two Glenn players on the first team are Mike Garcia (North Farmington), Dan Loacano (Garden City East), Dave Beebe (Thurston) and Mark Bentley (North Farmington).

Glenn's Pat McBride and Franklin's Jeff Phillips were given second team considerations.

3 Spartan cagers are named to all-league

Three Cherry Hill cagers who led the high school to its first Tri-River Conference basketball championship were named this week to the all-conference team.

The three: Keith Steward, Jim Steudle and Dennis Gunn were among 10 players selected by the coaches of the eight-team league.

All three are seniors.

Steward a 6-0, 160-pound forward, averaged 14 points per game for Coach Dick McNally's first championship team. Teammates Steudle and Gunn wound up their prep cage careers with 11 and 10 points per game averages, respectively.

Cherry Hill finished the 1976-77 league campaign with a 12-2 record.

Though the shooting is all over with for the local teams, there's still one important item on the high school basketball agenda that remains incomplete — the picking of the coveted All-Area basketball teams.

And that's what the coaches and the Associated Newspapers' sports department will be doing this week. Hopefully the team will be ready for the printers for next week's edition.

Garland earns 3rd cage letter at NMU

Mike Garland, a former Belleville High cage standout, was one of 13 members of the Northern Michigan University players who were awarded varsity letters for their participation on the 1976-77 Wildcats' squad.

Garland, a senior guard, earned his third letter.

A starter on a couple of occasions, Mike appeared in all 27 games. He was the hero of the double overtime season finale against UW Milwaukee, coming off the bench at the 1:48 mark of the second overtime to drop in the winning two free throws with 31 seconds to play.

He had been held out of the game to that point because he had broken a toe in practice earlier in the week.

On the year he averaged 5.0 points a game with a career high of 19 at St. Norbert. He reached double figures five times over the course of the year.

The Wildcats posted a 15-12 season record, NMU's fifth winning mark in the last six years, and finished fifth in the Great Lakes Conference with an 8-8 record.

Tickets going fast for hockey benefit

Tickets for the second annual Franklin Junior High student-faculty hockey game are going fast.

And one of the reasons is that residents can see ex-Red Wing great Ted Lindsay skate. Lindsay will be on the faculty side when the two teams square off at 7:30 p.m., March 25 at the Wayne Arena.

The proceeds of the second annual hockey game will go to help fight cancer and also be used by the Franklin Junior High Hockey Club.

Intermissions will be filled with entertainment provided by a Wayne precision girls' ice-skating group.

Tickets may be purchased for $1 (adults) and 50 cents (students) either at the junior high school or at the Wayne Arena.

Canton Jr. baseball registration continues

Ball players have two more opportunities to sign up for the Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball League.

League officials will hold registration from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. on March 19 and March 26 in the Plymouth-Canton High School cafeteria.

Any player who will be seven-years-old on or before July 31 of this year and not over 15-years old on or before July 31 may register.

Leagues will be organized for 7-8 year olds (League C); 8-9 year olds (League B), and 9-12 year-old, League C. There is a $11 registration fee for each of the leagues.

League A, consisting of players 10-12, has a $13 registration fee, while boys playing in the 13-year-old League F must fork out $15. That fee is also set for the 14-15 year old boys and girls League E and Senior G leagues, respectively.

All players must have proof of age at the time of registration. Parents who are interested in umpiring, managing or field maintenance are also urged to contact league officials.

Further information about the program may be obtained by telephoning league president Jerry Stevens at 453-0950.

'Perfect hosts'

Wolverines claim 30 medals

Though they played the role of "the perfect host", the Wayne-Westland Wolverine Wrestling Club members also found time to step up to the winner's dias at their annual wrestling invitational held over the weekend at Westland John Glenn.

The Wolverines, competing against their peers from Southern Michigan, earned eight first place medals, 10 seconds and 12 third places for a total of 30 medals.

Here are the medalists for the 8-year-old and under category: Emmet Berry, first place (43-pounds), John Godzina, second place (55), Eric Thorton, second place (58), Dan Shemansky, first place (61), Marc Sundberg, second place (61), Mike Conboy, third place (61), Eric Lawson, third place (64), Chris Zimmerman, heavyweight (first place), Charlie Lauber, heavyweight, (first place).

In the 9-10 age group, the medalists included: Tom Forchone, first place (100), Kelly Mervyn, third place (62) and John Eberhart, third place (71).

In the 11-12 age group, the medalists are: Don Farchone, first place (119), heavyweight Tom Aloise (second place), Robb Paciocco first place (90), Jeff Sundberg, second place (86), Craig Thorton, second place, (90) and Dean Garza, third place (95).

The 13-14 age group medalist are: Jim Everly, first place (119), Keith Zimmerman, first place (138), Lovie Toarniene, second place (126) and third place finishers Ron Pittman (95), Mark Flores (112), Brett Lawson (119), Jeff Wacker (126), Mike Novick (138), Scott Thorton (155), Steve Alewine (heavyweight) and John Demers (105).

Wayne Dolphins eye AAU swim championship

By GEORGE WHITEHEAD
Special Correspondent

Three members of the Wayne Recreation Dolphin Swim Club will put a little extra effort into practice next week as they prepare for the Class AA Michigan Amateur Athletic Union championships.

The Class AA state championship will be held March 25, 26 and 27 at Clarenceville High.

The trio, Eric Head, Todd Melanshek and Mike Greuber, will be the only Dolphins competing for state honors.

Head and Melanshek will swim in the 11- and 12-year-old category, while Greuber will vie for laurels in the 10-under age group.

Head is slated to swim 50-yard freestyle, 50-yard butterfly, 50-yard breaststroke and 100-yard breaststroke, while Melanshek seeks honors in the 50-yard freestyle, 100-yard freestyle and 50-yard breaststroke.

Greuber will swim six events. They are the 50-yard freestyle, 50-yard butterfly, 50-yard backstroke, 50-yard breaststroke, 100-yard breaststroke and 100-yard Individual Medley.

To qualify for the championships the three Elliott School students had to achieve AA times in the events entered either in competition or time trials.

Several other Dolphin swimmer qualify for state competition, but because they are presently swimming for junior high school teams, state athletic board rulings prohibit their participation.

Automaker donates trailers

Cadillac aids Wayne athletic programs

The young athletes at Wayne Memorial High School received an important boost today from the Cadillac Motor Car Division of General Motors.

The automaker donated two highway trailers, one 35 feet long and one 40 feet, to the school's athletic department for use in the storage of outdoor sports material.

As with most high school athletic programs, there was no money at Wayne Memorial High School to purchase storage facilities for the blocking sleds, tackling dummies, hurdles, high jump pits or baseball material needed to conduct competitive athletics.

Noting that Cadillac has been actively involved in an educational donation program for several years, school officials approached the Detroit car builder on the possibility of securing one of its large transportation trailers for storage of outdoor sports items.

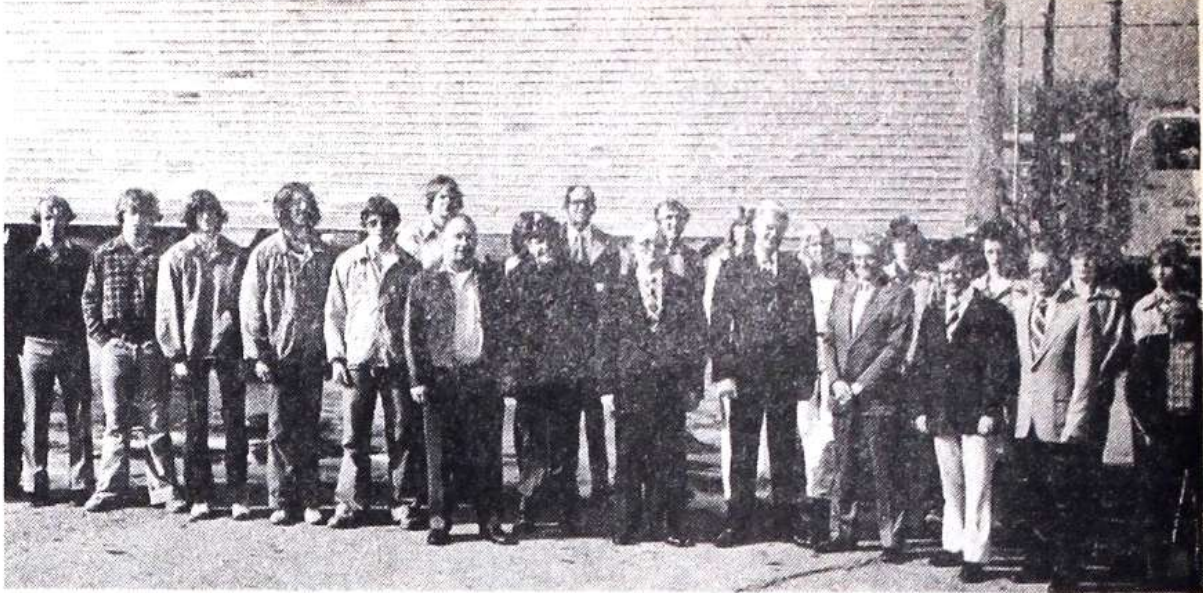

The request was a new challenge for Cadillac. Past donations of partially damaged automobiles, new and used engines and automotive components to schools throughout the country have been made to instructors for use with students in the technical study of automotive mechanics.

These donations have totaled nearly $450,000 since 1973. Realizing the importance of athletics to the total school curriculum, officials at Cadillac quickly undertook a survey of their trailer fleet, trying to find an available unit to fill this request.

Once the division began a program to replace some of its highway trailers with newer units, two of those going out of service were earmarked for the students at Wayne Memorial High School. The trailers, which once carried various automotive components from other midwest cities to Detroit for use in Cadillac automobiles, arrived at the school this morning.

Cadillac trailers T-74 and T-75 would have been sold at a nominal value. Cadillac and Wayne Memorial High School officials agree they're worth much more than that to the school's athletes.

Pretty big gifts

Parked in the background is one of two trailers that Cadillac Motor Car Division donated to Wayne Memorial High School last week. School officials said that they would use the two trailers as a storage for outdoor sports equipment. Pictured with the prep athletes are school officials: George Bell, principal of Wayne High (first row,

They're champs on the ice

Posting a 17-2-2 over-all record, the VFW Sabres captured the 1976-77 Pee Wee B League Hockey championship in the Westland Hockey Association. Making the Sabres a winner this year on the ice were Dennis Schultz (seated, from left) Marty Reddy, Gary Ruskin, goalie Rich

Wayne floor hockey season ends

The curtains came down on the 1976-77 Wayne Recreation Department Floor Hockey season last week with the All-Stars taking on the league champs.

The girls game saw the league champs from Monroe fall in defeat to the All-Stars, 8-8-3.

Lisa Galerno, this year's league leading goal-getter, scored three goals, as Sherry Bratcher, Sharon Mason, Nanette Lanthier, Cindy Bleyle, and Evette Pinazza all scored one goal apiece for the all-stars.

Monroe's goals were scored by Mary Batterson, Barb D'Annunzio and Denise Gill.

In the boys' game, league champ Monroe also was defeated by the All-stars, 10-5.

Don Vojtkofsky, from St. Marys, was this year's leading goal-getter, and also lead the All-stars to their victory by scoring five goals.

Bill Kashawlic and Bob Dare scored two each. Steve McGowan scored the final goal for the All-Stars.

Monroe's scoring was lead by Gary Vallance with a hat-trick, with Brian Mac and Richard Favazza scoring one each.

Members of all the teams were:

Girls - (League champ from Monroe) Lori Dekraker, Mary Batterson, Kari Jackson, Barb D'Annunzio, Debbie Planko, Sally Weinberg, Denise Gill, Colleen Giffin, and the coach Cheryl Climie.

Girl All-Stars - Mary Podgorny, Laura Hayes, Lisa Galerno, Sherry Bratcher, Sharon Mason, Krista Hayward, Nanette Lanthier, Brenda Walls, Katrina Barrett, Chris Cooney, Leila Hardy, Cindy Bleyle, Evette Pinazza, and Pam Hendershot.

Boys League champs (from Monroe) - Don Lynn, Doug Vallance, Gary Vallance, Brian Mac, Don VonHoosier, Tim Adis, Jeff Trent, Jeff Blazer, Jim Bledsoe, Rick Connelly, Dean Ferris, Rich Favazza, and coached by John Schmieder.

Boy All-Stars - Sam Lentine, Bill Kashawlic, Don Vojtkofsky, Brian Chalmers, Mike Meissner, B.J. Pajot, Jim Clark, Ron Miotto, John Allen, Kurt Peurasarri, Bob Dare, Steve Chandler, Jeff Lanthier.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. — Dennis Easley enjoyed an outstanding freshman debut with the Lake Superior State College basketball Lakers this past season. A 1975-76 all-state guard at Belleville High School, Easley poured in 232 points for a 9.0 average for the Lakers while pulling down 145 rebounds, despite playing at a guard slot. His 73 assists were second high on the team. Easley played a key role in helping the Lakers post a 16-10 won-lost record during the recently completed season.

MSU offers advanced gymnastics to girls

Since the advent of a girl named Olga, the popularity of gymnastics has catapulted on the American scene.

This spring Michigan State University will offer a course in Advanced Gymnastics, beginning Wednesday, March 30, 7-10 p.m.

Barbara McKenzie, the instructor and gymnastics coach at Michigan State University, said the course will focus on intermediate and advanced skills in women's gymnastics.

Skill prerequisites, lead-ups, spotting and mechanical analysis will be stressed in the four all around events (vaulting, beam, bars, floor exercise) and tumbling.

An additional course in Athletic Training will be offered in Birmingham for 10 consecutive Thursdays, 7-10 p.m., beginning March 31. Mr. Clinton Thompson, Coordinator of Athletic Training and Rehabilitation, MSU, will study the techniques used in the prevention, care, and rehabilitation of athletic injuries.

Registration: March 14-17 or March 21-24, 8:00 a.m. - 7:30 p.m. at the Birmingham Center of Continuing Education, 746 Purdy St.,

Birmingham. Bank-Americard and MasterCard are welcome when registering in person. For further information call 645-5410.

Wayne seeks gal softballers

With spring-like weather hitting the scene, Wayne is readying its 1977 girls' softball leagues. And the recreation department is seeking players.

Not only players but managers are also needed for the teams, so if you wish to volunteer your time to coach a mini-league (8-to-12) or maxi-league (13-to-17) team, please telephone 721-7400.

Anyone wanting to umpire either baseball or softball is urged to contact the recreation department officials at the same number.

STAN PITTMAN

Pittman awarded letter at NI

Stan Pittman, former All-Area cager from Inkster, has been playing varsity ball for Northwood Institute in Midland.

Pittman has been an occasional starter for the Northmen this season, and has a season high 20 points against Lake Superior in January, and a season best of 11 rebounds against Hillsdale.

Northwood is member of the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (GLIAC).

The Northmen are coached by Pat Miller, former player and coach for Michigan State University, who led Menominee to the Class B title in 1968.

Ex-All-Area swimmer gives Broncos depth

Mark Blanchard, a former member of the elite All-Area swim club, is breaking all kinds of records at Western Michigan University these days.

The sophomore tanker who is the swim team's co-captain placed third in the 400-yard individual medley and sixth in the 200-yard individual medley to help the Broncos claim fifth place at the Mid-American Conference swimming championships held at WMU last week.

Blanchard had times of 2:00.37 in the 200 and 4:19.11 in the 400 and also swam on all three of Western's relay teams — 400 medley, 400 freestyle and 800 freestyle.

Blanchard holds WMU varsity records in the 500 (4:47.91), 1,000 (10:08.60) and the 1,650 freestyle (16:56.85) events and also the 200 (1:59.04) and 400 (4:19.11) individual medleys besides swimming on the WMU record holding 400 (3:10.82) and 800 (7:04.58) freestyle relay teams.

IRISH BEEF STEW

3 pounds boneless lamb shoulder, cut into 1½ inch cubes (beef can be substituted for lamb)

½ cup chopped onion
1 cup diced potato
1½ cups sliced carrots
1 cup cubed white turnips
2 cups sliced onion or 12 to 15
small boiling onions
3 cups sliced potato
Salt and pepper
½ cup chopped parsley

Irish Stew is a "natural" for March 17. The meat is not browned, and the stew is therefore quicker to assemble than most. Some recipes add only potatoes and sliced onions to the meat, but looks and flavor are enhanced by the addition of carrots and turnips and a bit of greenery. For 6 to 8 servings:

Put the lamb, chopped onion and diced potato into a stew pot and pour on boiling water to cover them. Cover the pot and simmer for 1 hour. With a fork mash up the diced potato to thicken the gravy and then add the other vegetables except the parsley. Season with salt and pepper, cover and simmer 30 to 45 minutes, or until everything is tender. Served sprinkled with the chopped parsley.
